Dies of Bullet Wound

Slumped down in the seat of an automobile outside a San Francisco hospital, Mrs. Vada S. Martin, a nurse, lies with a bullet wound in the heart. She died a few moments after being removed from the vehicle by hospital attendants. According to hospital employes, Mrs. Annie Mansfeldt, wife of a prominent physician, John J. Mansfeldt, called them and said: "There is a dying woman in my car. I shot her." Police said Mrs. Mansfeldt told them she suspected her husband and the attractive nurse of being overfriendly.

Pickets Still Tie Oil Plants in Hub

Shipyard workers at the Atlanic and Simpson yards in East Boston met today for a strike vote,while strike-bound major oil plants of Greater Boston awaited Navyseizure and telephone employes prepared for their four-hour nation-ide walkout. The shipbuilders joined the labor trouble parade with an abrupt announcement to the management that "the honeymoon is over. This is our answer."

Stewards and committeemen called all workers of Local 25 to order in Union Hall. Central sq., East Boston, an dasked votes on nine proposals, one of them for a strike vote.

Other matters under vote included a demand for a 30 per cent general wage boost, guaranteed annual wage and job security, severance pay, paid holidays, a closed shop and equal distribution of premium work. Several thousand workers are affected.

At the same time, picketing continued at oil plants in this area, while First Naval District and union leaders of 600 strikes awaited official word that the Navy would take over.

A Navy spokesman said no action would be taken by the First Naval District pending instructions from Washington.

William T. Gormley, secretary-treasurer of the Oil Workers International Union, CIO, said the strikers would resume work as soon as the government seizure became effective.

Meanwhile, he emphasized, there would be no letup in picketing which has halted oil and gasoline deliveries almost completely in the metropolitan area.

Meanwhile, Clyde T. Morrill, executive secretary of the Independent Oil Dealers' Ass'n of New England, indicated that the movement of needed fuel to hospitals and food processing plants was up to the division of necessities of life. He said he had advised officials at the state division to appeal directly to CIO leaders in all such cases.

Asked to comment further, Morrill said he expected no change in the present situation until next week. Facetiously, he said: "It's a lovely day and the boys out on strike can get some good hot sun, and, of course, they have the ball games to listed to over the weekend. No, I don't think there will be any change until Monday, at least."

Spokesmen for fuel oil companies said they expected no serious shortage unless the strike lasted at least two weeks.

The nationwide telephone strike is scheduled from 2 to 6 p. m. New England Telephone Co. officials said the work stoppage would affect all calls coming into Boston or routed through Boston from out of the state and all calls going out of Massachusetts

There will be no effect on calls within the state or so-called local calls near state borders.

About 300 Boston operators and 75 plant maintenance men will take part in the work stoppage.

While attention was focused today on the oil and telephone strikes, reports reached state officials that Massachusetts may be affected by a bread strike which has tied up deliveries in northern New Jersey.

The AFL Teamsters' Union in New York warned that sympathy walkouts would be staged in five states unless wage and other demands of the New Jersey strikers are met by eight large baking concerns.

Strikers' Return to Work Uncertain; Navy Is Oil Boss

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Navy is boss today over a third of the nations oil refinery capacy. President Truman seized the strike-bound plants in15 states last night and put the job of getting them back into production into the Navy's hands. Twenty-six companies wer taken over.

Mr. Truman said the two-week strike of 43,000 workers had caused serious shortages in fuel supplies of the armed forces, besides endangering essential production and all forms of transportation.

There was no immediate indication whether the CIO oil workers would return at once to their jobs in the seized plants. Union President O. A. Knight reserved comment.

Elsewhere on the troubled labor scene:

1—A four-hour interruption in the nation's telephone service—except for dial phones—was scheduled today from 2 to 6 p. m., eastern standard time, as a protest demonstration by the National Federation of Telephone Workers.

2—With 122,500 soft coal miners idle, the government intervened in another dispute: Secretary of Labor Swellenbach invited John L. Lewis and bituminous operators to meet with him tomorrow. The operators twice had refused to meet with Lewis, mine union boss.

3—Schwellenbach promised a statement during the day reviewing the whole reconrsion labor picture.

4—A meeting wa scheduled during the day to aange final plans for the labor-anagement conference called by Ir. Truman to fix a formula for stling labor troubles. Among thing to be decided was a proposalto advance the scheduled Nov. ! convening date because of the pesent widespread industrial disptes.

V. Adm. Ben Morell, chief of the navy's Bureau of Yards and docks, drew the assignment of running the seized oil facilities. His first act was to send messages to plant managers to act for the government.

LAKELAND, Fla., Oct. 5 (AP)—Two persons were killed when a National Air Lines passenger plane overshot a Lakeland air field and crashed into Lake Parker here this morning.

Thirteen other passengers, including pilot and co-pilot, were rescued by boat when they crawled from the wrecked plane, which plummeted into 12 feet of water.

Two passengers, still unidentified, were pinned in the wreckage under water. Diving equipment was rushed from Tampa.

The 13 rescued were taken to Morrell Memorial Hospital.

Hirohito Is Glad His Cabinet Quit

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, Oct. 5 (AP)—Japan's post-surrender cabinet quit today because it couldn't—or wouldn't enforce Gen. MacArthur's revolutionary freedom policy and oust its home minister—and Jap newspapermen said former Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida "might" be the new premier.

Emperor Hirohito accepted resignations of Prince Higashi-Kuni and his entire cabinet with the comment "That is good," and made it clear he would ask MacArthur's prior approval of the next premier.

Yoshida, a career diplomat, told Jap interviewers "It is not I," but they pointed out that two visits he made to the imperial palace today—and two calls at MacArthur's headquarters—indicated his selection and approval.

Imperial household sources reported Hirohito was dispensing with the traditional advice of Japan's elder statesmen in making his new choice of a premier.

(A Reuter's dispatch from Tokyo speculated that another former foreign minister, 73-year-old Baron Kujuro Shidehara, one-time ambassador to the United States, had been offered the premiership.)

The cabinet to be named by the incoming premier may not have army and navy ministers. Jap government authorities said these posts have been retained up to the present to carry out demobilization, now expected to be completed by Oct. 15.

The new premier's first job will be to alleviate the critical food, fuel and housing shortage throughout Japan. He also may be called on to cope with political agitation stemming from American release of Jap political prisoners.

Reds Say U.S. Britain Peril Big 3 Accord

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Soviet government organ Izvestia said today if the United States and Britain continued to insist on the position they took during the Foreign Ministers Conference in London, they would "shake the very basis of collaboration" among the three major powers.

The editorial was the first comprehensive explanation of the Soviet position on the foreign ministers meeting which broke up in disagreement.

Foreign Commissar Molotov, back from London, meanwhile presented to the government his first-hand account.

Izvestia declared "the seriousness of what happened in London cannot be underestimated."

Izvestia sharply criticized U. S. Secretary Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Bevin. Byrnes was accused of hindering a Soviet proposal to extend sessions a day longer and of "categorically refusing to prolong the work of the ministers' council."

"As is well known," the editorial said, "at international conferences one government cannot give orders to another. It is about time this was understood."

JOHN, IRENE AND CARRIE MANSFELDT
Mother Held in Slaying of Love Rival

Doctor's Wife Kills His Nurse

SAN FRAUCISCO, Oct. 5—Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt, 43, socialite wife of a prominent physician and mother of three children, faced municipal court here today charged with the murder of her husband's pretty, dark-haired nurse.

The slaying, committed in a fit of jealousy, was disclosed when the red-headed mother drove up to San Francisco Emergency Hospital and announced:

"There's a woman dying in my car. I shot her."

In an expensive automobile, attaches of the hospital found the body of Mrs. Vada S. Martin, 36, wife of a Navy warrant officer now overseas.

Mrs. Annie Mansfeldt

The accused woman told Police Insp. Al Corassa, according to an Associated Press dispatch, that she suspected her husband, Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, of being over friendly with the nurse.

Corassa quoted Mrs. Mansfeldt as saying:

"I shot her. I accused her of being infatuated with my husband. She told me it was my imagination.

"She said my husband was the best and kindest man she had ever known, and after I shot her she told me they had been nothing but friends.

"She told me that with her dying breath, and now I believe her. Now I believe her and it's too late. It's too late."

Emergency hospital attendants said the body of Mrs. Martin was still warm when brought to the hospital by Mrs. Mansfeldt in an automobile. The nurse had been shot through the left breast.

Dr. Mansfeldt, summoned to the hospital, identified his wife and then left in a few minutes without commenting on the tragedy.

The couple's three children are Carrier, 12; John, 14, and Irene, 15.

Louis Cambou, steward at the hospital, said Mrs. Mansfeldt was calm when she arrived and dropped a pistol on his desk.

Later she collapsed and became hysterical.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Harding McGuire said the doctor's wife told him that previously she went looking for her husband and Mrs. Martin, nurse at the hospital where the physician had many patients.

"I found them together in my husband's automobile about 1 a. m.," she declared.

Corasso said Mrs. Mansfeldt told him that she only intended to frighten the nurse, not shoot her, when they met by agreement last night.

"I thought it was loaded with blanks. I'd used it in amateur theatricals," he quoted her as saying.

Soldier's Wife Killed Trying to Save Photo

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Moraghan, 34, was dead today because, firemen said, she attempted to save a photograph of her soldier husband from her burning home.

Mrs. Moraghan died only a few hours after firemen found her, burned, unconscious and nearly suffocated by smoke in the hallway.

Girl Admits Tieup With Crime Gang

A diminutive, 23-year-old Allston woman, mother of two children, stood in the glare of lights at the police lineup today and told of her friendship with the five-man gang suspected of pulling several major safe robberies in Greater Boston. In a low voice, and prompted by Lt. James V. Crowley, she said she was with one of the suspects, a Dorchester ex-convict, when he parked his car at a Norwood bank and a Quincy chain store late at night.

"What did you think he planned to do at those places?" Lt. Crowley asked.

"I thought he was watching them to take them," she replied, using the gangster term meaning to rob.

She said she made several trips to a wooded section of Norwood and on one occasion her companion confided to her that he had safe-breaking tools and guns hidden there.

"Didn't you connect that statement with any of the recent safe jobs?" asked Crowley.

"I thought so, but I didn't dare ask questions," she said.

She said the Dorchester man laughingly said "that's the kind of work I used to do" when she showed him a newspaper story about the armed robbery of the Pepsi-Cola plant in Brighton.

She revealed the suspect took his car to the Lalime-Partridge Co. plant in Boylston st., Back Bay, to be repaired shortly before the place was burglarized and a safe robbed.

"He drove a Lincoln Zephyr that he owned and I went in his Cadillac with two other men so we could give him a ride home after he left his car for repairs," she said.

She said she was not living with her husband and that her children were in custody of the State. She said her gand-leader friend gave her $20 a week and had bought her three dresses since they met in a South End tavern last July.

She was taken from the room and her gangster companion was brought in and questioned about her story. He denied telling her about any tools or guns or taking her to Quincy or Norwood.

When Lt. Crowley informed him that his girl friend had given them the story, he calmly said:

"Well, I guess she lied."

Crowley ordered the woman back into the room and she repeated her story, item for item, while her friend glowered. During a pause while police conferred he was heard to mutter something to her but his words were inaudible to listeners.

The suspect admitted his cars were registered in the name of

TO BE DIVORCED?—Tillie Losch, Austrian ballerina, may soon be freed of her husband, the sixth Earl of Carnarvon, who asked a London court today to grant him a divorce on the ground of desertion. The dancer came to the United States in 1940, he charged. The couple have no children.

Windsor Is Back In England, Calls On His Mother

HENDON, Eng., Oct. 5 (INS)—The Duke of Windsor set foot on English soil again today and went immediately to Marlborough House for a reunion with his mother, Dowager Queen Mary.

The former King of England had not seen his mother since he abdicated nine years ago to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, who did not accompany him here.

None of the royal family was at Hendon airdrome to meet the duke when he arrived but he was expected to see his brother, King George VI, within a few hours.

A fair-sized crowd gathered outside the station gates to welcome the duke home.

As he stepped from the plane, he told reporters:

"I am glad to be back home. I will be here only a few days this time."

Sailor Killed, 2 Injured in Everett Crash

One sailor was killed and two others critically injured today when their car crashed into the rear of a loaded 20-ton parked truck in Main st., Everett.

The dead youth was identified by Navy officials as James E. Milsted, of Beatrice, Ala. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Chelsea Naval Hospital.

The injured taken to the same hospital are John F. Gerade, 29, of Lynn Fells pkwy., Melrose, and John E. Mattern, 19, of Pennsylvania.

Police said Gerade, who is home on sick leave, was driving to Melrose when he spotted the other two sailors, who are crew members of the USS Biddle, hitchhiking a ride. Realizing there were no buses operating in the early morning, Gerade turned around and offered to take the pair to the Everett station.

The Gerade car hit the parked truck with such force, police said, that the sedan bounced across the street into another truck.

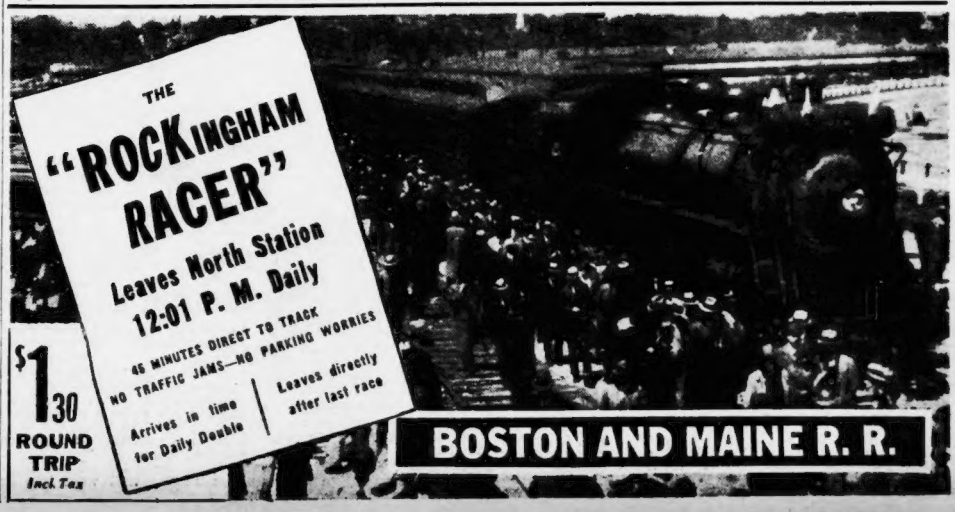
Milsted was pinned in the wreckage. Gerade and Mattern were thrown 25 feet out of the car.

Everett Police Sgt. Henry Fitzgerald and Patrolman Bernard Kane with the aid of Leo Connors, of Thorndike ave., Lowell, a truck driver, extricated Milsted from the wrecked car.

Tyler Kent Free, To Be Deported

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Tyler Kent, former code clerk at the U. S. embassy in London, completed his term of imprisonment today for violation of the British official secrets act in 1940.

He is at Brixton prison, where it was reported officially he would stay pending deportation to the United States. The American embassy estimated this would take about ten days. Kent was sentenced to seven years, but good behavior reduced the term. Most of the time was spent on the Isle of Wight.



Hitler Youths In Revolt Plot

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (AP)—A country-wide trend of German's idle, homeless, desperate youth to enroll in underground warfare against "the foreign devils" on her soil, was uncovered today in reports of Allied intelligence services.

Keeping alive Nazism at its blackest, members of the former Hitler Youth and young prisoners of war set at liberty were reported swelling the ranks of secret "resistance clubs" scattered from the North sea to the Bavarian mountains.

Small premature outbreaks such as that which occurred last month in the American-ruled Bremen enclave—the corridor through the British zones giving American access to the big Weser river port—enabled Allied investigators to piece together an overall picture of a widespread movement founded on racial hatred and revenge.

Two issues are being exploited by German organizers, many of them believed to be members of Himmler's feared Gestapo, to recruit vagabond youths for future operations:

1—Illicit sexual relations between Allied troops and German women.

2—Lawless behavior of armed bands of foreign displaced persons—chiefly Poles—toward defenseless civilians.

Both issues were described by Allied officers as "made to order" to obtain enlistment of underground personnel and assure the protective sympathy of civilians for any violence.

Because relatively few Gestapo veterans have been arrested, it was believed some of them were among the "brains" of the growing movement.

In spirit, the underground constitutes a renaissance of the worst of Nazism. Investigators report that at secret cell meetings wine glasses are raised at the mention of Hitler's name, and impassioned young toastmasters declare, "Our Fuehrer lives eternally—Germany rises again!"

One or two attacks have been reported against United States soldiers. But most of the pressure is directed against the women. In at least five provinces of the American and British zones, clandestine posters and leaflets have threatened head-shaving or worse for "Allied prostitutes."

One distributed in the Munich area read:

"It took five years to overcome the German soldier. It takes only five minutes to overcome the German girl."

ATTENDS COMMISSIONING—The commissioning of the USS Glennon, a new 2200-ton destroyer at Boston Navy Yard, was witnessed by Frances R. Glennon, of Forest Hills, L. I., who sponsored the ship, named in honor of her grandfather, R. Adm. Glennon, when it was launched at Bath, Me.

Soldier Dads Arrive To Meet New Babies

Happiest among 131 New Englanders who arrived among 1944 European veterans aboard the SS Montclair Victory at Commonwealth Pier today were two young fathers, who will get their first glimpse of their first-born children.

Sgt. Esmond Rice, Jr., of Carlton st., Newton, was doubly happy for he arrived back in time to assist in celebrating the first birthday of his daughter, Marcia, two weeks from today. He has been overseas 20 months.

The other father is Lt. Paul E. Quintin of Wells ave., Dorchester, eager for his first meeting with Paul, Jr., 20 months old.

The Montclair Victory was the first of five transports docking in Boston today, bringing home a total of 4290 veterans, of whom 240 are New England men.

A real veteran aboard the Montclair Victory was Cpl. Harold F. Brown of Lewis st., East Saugus, setting foot on his native soil for the first time in 45 months.

"Germany, France and even England, I could stand," he grinned. "But, oh, those first 18 months in Iceland. We almost blew our tops there. Sherman was right."

M-Sgt. George R. McKenzie, of Whitby ter., Dorchester, who formerly worked in the Boston Stock Exchange, wants to forget all about his 33 months overseas.

"I'm not going back to work," he said, "I'm going to take advantage of the GI bill and finish my education."

Three of the four other vessels arriving today docked at the Army Base during the morning. They included the Thomas Marshal, which had no New England men among 755 aboard; the John Howland, which included 93 from New England in its list of 741 passengers, and the Alcee Fortier, which debarked 102, six from this area.

The fifth transport, John P. Mitchell, was scheduled to dock at the Army Base at 7:30 p. m. with 748 aboard, none from New England.

Gallarelli Tells Of Costly Clothes

Samuel J. Gallarelli, 24, of Windsor st., Medford, on trial in Middlesex Superior Court for the killing of John E. MacKenzie, 39, ex-convict, testified today it was not uncommon at all for him to buy $15 hats or $10 cravats.

Gallarelli, who explained he booked bets, is charged by the state with having fled from his home, hatless and tileless, after shooting the former convict. He had admitted today that he purchased the expensive haberdashery Jan. 18, the day after the shooting. His reason for the hat, he said, was that he noticed people looking at his old one, and when he examined it he found bloodstains on it.

"One reason you bought the hat was that you had MacKenzie's money with you, wasn't it?" demanded Dist. Atty. George E. Thompson.

The defendant denied it. Reminded he had previously told authorities he was unemployed, he then disclosed his work as a bookie.

Laval Jury Weighs Plea For Postponement of Trial

By LEON PEARSON

PARIS, Oct. 5 (INS)—The jury trying Pierre Laval for treason today considered an appeal for postponement.

The former Vichy premier's attorney said Laval had not had time "or opportunity" to prepare a defense.

The short, dark Vichyite was back in the courtroom when the session opened, warned by the court against any further demonstration like that of yesterday when he was ushered from the room after a bitter outburst against the prosecution.

Laval's attorney, Albert Naud, opened his defense by demanding his client be "given the same justice the Germans are getting at the Belsen trial."

Laval seemed tired and hopeless as the trial went into its second day.

'Happy' Is Happy On Learning Son Freed in Japan

Patient and prayerful waiting over a three-year period finally has brought its reward to Moses "Happy" Rubinovitz, circulation executive of the Boston Record-American. His son, PFC Samuel Rubinovitz, 30, light-heavyweight boxing champion of the Philippines, has been liberated in Japan after being a prisoner of war since the fall of Bataan.

Ever since V-J Day, "Happy" has literally haunted the news room, eagerly scanning every wire story for news that his son might be among those who had survived the long imprisonment. The good news at last was just what the doctor ordered.

Except for a postcard which a Jap commander sent out long ago and a strange message written on the back of a Chinese baby's landing certificate unearthed by our American forces, no word had been received during all those three years.

The brief message from the War Department said only that Samuel had been liberated from the Jap camp and had been flown to a Manila hospital. It found the father in New York where he was still in quest of news of his boy. The War Department added the good news that the boy will soon be back in the United States.

For three dragging years Moses Rubinovitz lived up to his soubriquet of "Happy," never giving up hope that Sam would be found and always turning a smiling face to inquiries of his son, even when his heart was heavy with anxiety.

After the treacherous Jap attack on Pearl Harbor there was a long lapse, even after the surrender of the doomed fortress at Bataan before word came from the War Department in August, 1942, that the boy was "missing in action."

It was not until August, 1943, that a card from Sammy slipped through to tell his father that he was a prisoner of war in a Philippine prison camp. The card was just a form with words like "uninjured" and "well" underscored, expressing the hope that the family was well, and sending regards to "Sadie and the boys at the office."

Then followed another two years of emptiness for "Happy" until a strange message came from the War Department. It was written on the back of a landing certificate for a Chinese baby gaining entrance to the Philippines. It said that Samuel was well and the War Department added that it evidently had been prepared for a short wave radio broadcast to be made by the soldier.

But before it could be made Samuel was transferred to the Japanese mainland. The War Department forwarded it for its "sentimental value" to Happy.

Young Rubinovitz was employed by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser before joining the Army. A graduate of Revere High School in 1934, he was an all-scholastic football star and a member of the baseball team.

Pier Shortage Harmful to Hub

Lack of pier facilities will be the only barrier preventing Boston from becoming a major port in the postwar resumption of intercoastal shipping, according to a statement by John N. Levins, district manager of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Line.

This company is one of the lines scheduled to begin service under a temporary program sponsored by the War Shipping Administration.

Before the war, the line berthed at Commonwealth Pier and the Army Base but these piers now are used by the Navy and Army for troop movements and other facilities must be found.

French President's Bust Livens Bunker Hill Row

Charlestown residents today went forward with their plan to place honoring markers on Bunker Hill for men of the district lost in all wars, and at the same time offered a $64 question to the Daughters of the American Revolution.

"Why is there a marble bust of M. Carnot, fourth president of the Third French Republic, adorning the museum room on Bunker Hill?" was the question asked the DAR's who feel that Bunker Hill should be reserved for those connected with the American Revolution.

It was pointed out that Carnot died in 1894 and had no connection with Bunker Hill, and even the directors of the Bunker Hill Monument Ass'n could give no reason why the Frenchman was so honored.

Veteran organizations already had taken the DAR to task for opposing the plan to place markers on the historic hill—an opposition which developed at the conclusion of the organization's three-day convention in Swampscott.

The resolution of the D. A. R. stated that an "old law" limited Bunker Hill to commemorating "only the early events of the Revolution," and opposed an order of the last Legislature directing the Metropolitan District Commission to determine the cost and desirability of the markers on Bunker Hill. The resolution also suggested that Charlestown residents erect a suitable memorial to their heroic dead at some other spot.

State Com. Frank Roche of the Disabled American Veterans declared:

"The casualty lists of the last war show a greater number of casualties, pro rata, for Charlestown than for any other section of the nation. These boys were brought up to believe in what Bunker Hill Monument really symbolized—and they followed through."

State Adjutant Coleman Curran of the American Legion, blasting the D. A. R. resolution, declared:

"Thank God, we don't have to depend on the Daughters of the American Revolution to perpetuate this nation. Bunker Hill is as sacred to the Irish of Charlestown and to those of all other races as it was to the Yankees in '75 and '76."

HERO GREETS HIS GIRL—The first meeting with his girl friend, Carolyn Brown, 17, of Portsmouth, Va., is almost as big a thrill for Jacklyn "Luke" Lucas, 17, Marine hero of Iwo Jima, as the Medal of Honor he will receive today in Washington, D. C.

Man at 17--Medal Of Honor Proves It

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—"I love that woman," said the blond ex-Marine. "I'm crazy about her."

"Brother, you can say that again," said that woman.

That woman is 17-year-old Carolyn Brown and her man is 17-year-old Jacklyn Lucas.

He's a man, all right. It was a lot of man who smothered those two Japanese grenades with his own body last Feb. 20 on Iwo Jima. The three comrades he did it for must have forgotten right there that "Luke" was only six days past his 17th birthday.

And President Truman made it official when he summoned former PFC Lucas, along with 13 others, to hang the Congressional Medal of Honor around their necks today.

A giant celebration for Adm. Nimitz provided a setting for honoring the 14, who include Lt. Col. Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, Marine flying ace recently liberated from a Jap prison camp.

As far as the records show, the youngster from Belhaven, N. C., is the youngest ever cited for this peak award.

But Jacklyn and Carolyn didn't seem to be thinking much about the Congressional Medal of Honor as they sat eating southern fried chicken in a Washington hotel.

"She's some jitterbug," he said fondly.

"You can say I'm proud of him but please don't say much more," she contributed, caressing the diamond ring on the third finger, left hand.

Carolyn is a Navy Yard clerk at Portsmouth, Va. Jacklyn proposed last June and she accepted. They won't be married for a while.

He left a military academy when he was 14 to join the Marines. By the time he was 15 he was stationed in Hawaii. Before he was 17 he'd had 19 fist fights and five and one-half months' brig time.

That was when he decided it was time to start fighting Japs instead. He stowed away on a transport bound for Iwo Jima. And that was where the Marine Corps' juvenile delinquent became a hero.

Gunman Ties Boy To Attack Sister, 11

WORCESTER, Oct. 5—An attempt by a night prowler to attack an 11-year-old girl after tying up her 7-year-old brother in their home, where they were alone, was under investigation by police today.

The girl, Arlene Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Snider or Maplewood rd., said that while their parents were at the movies the lights at home suddenly went out. She related a man of about 25 came up the cellar stairs and told them not to be freightened, because he was "from the telectric light company."

Then, she said, the intruder seized her brother, David, and tied him hand and foot. The prowler carried both children up stairs, said the girl. He threw her on a bed in one room and David in another room.

He confronted her with a gun but she screamed so loudly he fled, the child added.

She was examined by Dr. Daniel Kaplan of Pleasant st., who said she had not been seriously harmed.

Vandal Damage In Hub Schools To Top $90,000

Vandalism damage to Boston school buildings this year will probably cost the taxpayers $90,000 and may bring about installation of a burglar alarm system, it was announced today by the board of commissioners.

This unprecedented measure to curb destruction was suggested after a check showed damage to school property already totals $79,000 since the beginning of this fiscal year. Loss from fires, breaking and entering, broken glass, defaced floors, wals and ceilings and destruction of school records and books reached this all-time high.

Of the total, $37,000 destruction was caused by three fires set at Bowditch School and $10,000 through destruction of property at the U. S. Grant and John B. Cashman schools, East Boston.

The cost of glass breakage alone now stands at $32,000.

In announcing the need for burglar alarms, commissioners issued a plea to all parents, whether they pay rent or own property, to warn children against such waste. The cost reverts to them in the for mof taxes or increased rents.

He added that he probably would serve out his term in the Legislature next year.

High Bail for 4 In Baressi Case

Four defendants in the shooting of Joseph Baressi, East Boston ex-convict, who was critically wounded in an East Boston cafe, appeared briefly in East Boston District Court today and had their cases continued until Nov. 5.

They are Joseph "Jo-Jo" Trolia, 22, of Greenwich, st., Dorchester, and Gerald Coyne, 30, of Hillside st., Roxbury, both charged with assault with intent to murder and each held in $50,000 bail, Guy Rindini, 28, of Shirley st., Roxbury, and Elaine Bendeky, 26, of West Cedar st., Beacon Hill, each held in $10,000 on a charge of being accessory after the fact. The latter were trapped with "Jo-Jo" in the West Cedar st. apartment.

Today's postponement was asked by the prosecution and the Nov. 5 trial date is contingent on recovery of Baressi at City Hospital.

Baressi, former bodyguard for a big Boston number pool operator, was shot as he sipped a drink in the East Boston Canteen, Chelsea st.

Trolia was identified by Baressi in a dramatic hospital accucation. Coyne was arrested later by Lt. James V. Crowley.

Cripple Claims Vision Cure

Upper Sandusky, O., Oct. 5 (AP)—A 38-year-old former school teacher who had been abed for 16 years is walking unaided again after experiencing visions, she said, in which she saw "the image of God."

"He said, 'You have had faith and will be cured,'" Miss Ninabelle Cross related, and added that she was given overnight the strength to walk after a long series of illnesses that included sleeping sickness and spinal meningitis.

The woman's pastor, Rev. Ray M. Dibble of the Methodist church, reported she had been a cripple and completely bedfast.

Solons, Other Auto Sale Critics Lashed

Myron D. Smith, acting regional director of the Office of Surplus Property, said today that Congressmen who seek to blame his office for alleged abuse of veterans at an Army auto sale in Ft. Devens have only themselves to blame. In a stinging reply to reports that Congressmen were demanding an investigation, Smith said:

"Congress wrote the bill under which we operate these sales. It devoted just 5⅛ lines to a section governing sales to veterans. That showed a lot of concern for the veteran, didn't it? Now, some of these Congressmen are talking about investigation."

Smith also lashed out at the veterans themselves and at the OPA in answering charges of former GIs that they had been charged excessive prices for Army vehicles now selling at Ft. Devens, while dealers were allowed to buy better machines at low prices.

"All of these veterans aren't lily white," Smith countered. "We definitely know that some of them are in cahoots with sharpshooting dealers—and we're going after them."

The regional surplus property head charged that many of the veterans griping about prices at the sale "never heard a shot fired and some of them had a wonderful time."

He said some veterans at the sale Wednesday stole tires, wheels and tools from trucks offered for sale.

"There are many combat veterans still overseas who haven't had a chance to buy these surplus Army trucks," he said. "We intend to set apart a certain part of our stockpile for these returning soldiers."

The surplus property head said more than 300 trucks have been sold in two days. He said about 900 remain to be sold to veterans and that sales will continue to Oct. 12.

Expert Sees Peril To GI Marriages

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5 (AP)—Solving marriage problems of returning servicemen is one of the gravest tasks facing the American community, asserted Dr. Randall B. Hamrick, director of Community Advisory Center, Bridgeport, Ct.

In an address before the all-Philadelphia conference on social work, Dr. Hamrick said many experts agree that one-third of all such marriages "are headed for the rocks."

"If social workers get on the job, many of these marriages can be saved," he added.

CPA Head Sees Crucial Period

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—John D. Small, chief of the new Civilian Production Administration which replaces the WPB Nov. 3, said today the next three or four months will be among the most crucial in America's history.

The reason, he told reporters, is this:

"That period will have every element of a prosperous decade ahead. At the same time it will have every element for provoking hysteria and causing everything to fall flat on its face."

The main thing the country needs to do to assure successful industrial reconversion, Small said, is "remain reasonable, use common sense and not be guided by emotions."

Mayoral Candidates Plan Nightly Rallies, Broadcasts

Nightly rallies and radio broadcasts from now until election day, Nov. 6, have been scheduled by all candidates for mayor, their respective campaign headquarters announced today.

Mayor Kerrigan, Cong. James M. Curley, and former Fire Comr. William A. Reilly were challenged to debate today by former School Committeeman Joseph Lee.

Reilly announced he proposed to use the $2,000,000 income accumulated in the George Robert White Fund to build a new municipal stadium to seat 100,000 persons, and an adjoining municipal auditorium for indoor events.

Curley declared that Boston is not the only city in need of modern planning and new construction, and emphasized the city was not doomed or done "beyond the hope of restoration and reconstruction."

Rep. Michael Paul Feeney asserted the executive powers of mayor should be entrusted to the candidate who has a proper background of experience in municipal finance and who possesses the ability to advance a constructive program and the courage to put it into effect.

Radio addresses in behalf of their candidacies were scheduled for tonight by Mayor Kerrigan and Governor's Councilor Sawtelle.

Long Opposed To Income Tax Repeal

Gov. Dewey's recommendation for repeal of the New York state income tax finds little favor here with Massachusetts Tax Commr. Henry F. Long.

Lonely Buddy to Get Gift From GI's Child

There'll be no need for a Fall River schoolgirl to send her father an overseas Christmas box this year. Her father, who has been in the Army for almost 24 years, is going to share Christmas with her for the first time since she was born. So this year, the happy girl is going to send a Christmas box to some lonely serviceman.

Enlisting in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas Campaign, which the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser are sponsoring, this youngster writes:

"My Daddy will be home with me for this Christmas, for the first time; he has been in service for nearly 24 years, so I want to send my Christmas box to a serviceman overseas. Please send me the address of a chaplain so that I can bring Christmas cheer to a boy who won't be home, and who will know that a girl back home is thinking of him."

There are exactly 10 days left—Oct. 15 is the deadline—in which to prepare and mail your Christmas packages for men in all branches of service overseas. Enlist in this campaign now by filling out and mailing the coupon accompanying this article. In return you will receive a label bearing the name and address of an overseas chaplain who will distribute your gift directly to a serviceman or woman in his unit.

Your gift package must not weigh more than five pounds, and it must be securely wrapped. Department and chain stores provide a box of heavy corrugated cardboard which is specially designed for overseas mailing.

Be sure to write or print in ink the name and address of the chaplain, as well as pasting on the label, and your name and address must be included.

Gifts should be durable and practical. No intoxicant, inflammables, or objects that are perishable or breakable will be accepted.

Nazi Camp Victims Drown As Women Guards Smile

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 5 (AP)—An affidavit read at the trial of Josef Kramer and 44 functionaries of the Oswiecim and Belsen concentration camps said today several of the captors once disported themselves by watching women drown.

A deposition from Elizabeth Hertz reported the former internee saw several women struggling in a deep pool of water in a ditch outside the Oswiecim camp, calling for help.

One of the defendants, Hilde Lobauer, and several others who like the Lobauer woman were internees who became supervisors by mistreating other prisoners stood on the bank with long poles, the document charged.

"I saw the Lobauer woman extend a pole to one of the women, who grasped it and was dragged halfway out of the water," the affidavit said.

"Then with a downward sweep of the pole, she threw her back into the water. All the supervisors apeared to be highly amused."

Kramer and the others are being tried by a British military court for war crimes.

Speedy Passage Of Tax Cut Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—A $5,300,000,000 tax-cutting bill goes before the House next week for debate and almost certain quick passage. Both Democrats and Republicans were pleased with the measure which emerged from the Ways and Means committee late yesterday.

In a nutshell, it:

1—Cuts the income tax next year for each individual by at least 10 per cent.

2—Sweeps about 12,000,000 low-income persons from the income tax rolls completely—after Jan. 1.

3—Slices corporation burdens next year by $1,900,000,000.

4—Cuts back, July 1, the war-imposed excise levies on such things as liquor, luggage, furs, jewelry and cosmetics.

5—Freezes the social security tax in 1946.

6—Repeals the $5 automobile use tax July 1, for a saving to motorists of $135,000,000.

Atomic Legislation Puzzles Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—A confused Congress today put off any action on atomic energy legislation until next week.

Members found themselves in this jam:

1—The Senate was unwilling to send a measure carrying out President Truman's domestic control plans to its military committee.

2—Democratic leaders didn't want the measure to go to a proposed joint Senate-House committee first suggested by Sen. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan.

3—The House, engrossed in other matters, showed few signs of acting on the Vandenberg proposal.

4—Senators faced the unpleasant prospect that Chairman May (D.) of Kentucky and the House military affairs committee might start hearings next week on a bill identical to the one they left hanging in midair yesterday.

The early enthusiasm which greeted the President's proposal for establishment of a domestic control commission appeared to have cooled noticeably.

No one argued that such a commission wasn't needed, but several senators thought it might not hurt for Congress to think about the subject a little longer.

New Yorkers Rally To Frank Fay's Aid

By HOWARD RUSHMORE

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—The right of Frank Fay, noted actor, to defend freedom of worship and to criticize radicals who scorn religion became the center of a citywide fight today. Following announcement by Bert Lytell, president of Actor's Equity, that charges against Fay would be filed by five actors who took part in a recent Red rally, persons in Brooklyn and Queens were circulating petitions protesting the decision.

Mrs. Violet M. Buckley, a communicant of St. Boniface Church, was obtaining signatures to a petition addressed to Lytell which read:

"We wish to enter a protest against a group of young members taking part in a demonstration that in any way could be used to stir public feeling against any religious denomination."

The petition referred to five Equity members who participated in a meeting called by the Communist front Joint Anti-Fascist Committee held in Madison Square Garden, where, speaking by radio from London, Harold J. Lasky, British Labor party spokesman, attacked the Catholic church in Spain.

Equity members who spoke at this rally were Margo, David Brooks, Jean Darling, Sono Osato and Luba Malina.

Fay had asked of Equity that if the five stars in question had indorsed Laski's statement by their appearance at the meeting, an investigation should be made of those who took part representing the theatrical world. His request was denied and, instead, Lytell announced charges against Fay would be heard Oct. 16.

Other petitions addressed to Lytell and defending Fay were being circulated by Mary Traynor, a member of the Carroll Club, Catholic women's organ, and by Mrs. Mary Kenney.

AND SO, My Fellow Countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting spirit of the American soldier and sailor. THEY ARE HOMEWARD BOUND—TAKE CARE OF THEM.—GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR.

RUSSIA'S POWER POLITICS

THE Council of Foreign Ministers at London, which Secretary of State Byrnes attended as our representative, must be "written off" as one of the most dismal failures in recent history.

It began as a "peace conference" among the five leading powers—the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia, France and China.

It ended in a kind of international brawl among the "Big Three" of Potsdam.

Soviet Russia was insistently obdurate and obstructive.

By reneging on an agreement which he had made, Commissar Molotov had France and China excluded from any European treaty settlements and even from the final discussions of the council itself.

This action deprived Great Britain and the United States of French and Chinese moral support on issues involving Russian "interests."

Other Russian maneuvers were interpreted in London as intended to eliminate America from European affairs and to extend Russian "influence" in the Mediterranean.

The future alignment in Europe will now be Moscow against London, with Germany conquered, with France demilitarized, with Italy helpless and with Russia dominating the continent through her satellite Communist states and accumulating naval strength in the warm seas through which the "lifeline" of the British Empire runs.

RUSSIA HAS also prepared to play herself against the United States on the other side of the world.

There was Molotov's sudden demand at London that an Allied commission, with Soviet Russia as a member, supplant Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo.

And Russia had already obtained Manchuria, half of Korea and all of the Kuriles from conquered Japan.

So it was surely no accident that, while the London council was bickering into its final hours, Soviet censorship permitted the following dispatch to come out of Russia:

"MOSCOW, Oct. 1 (AP)—Pravda said editorially today that the times 'have gone forever' when affairs in the Pacific can be settled without the participation of Soviet Russia."

Equally significant may have been the announcement, as the London Council helplessly adjourned, that Marshal Zhukov's projected visit to the United States had been postponed.

It is more than reasonable to say, therefore, that Soviet Russia's "power politics" destroyed any purpose or any usefulness that the London Council of Foreign Ministers might have had.

And "power politics" do not make for world peace.

IN LARGE PART, the Russian policy succeeded because the London Conference operated according to the methods of the old clandestine diplomacy.

The press of the world was not admitted to its sessions.

Imputing much of the American failure to this single cause, Mr. Herbert L. Matthews reports in a dispatch to the New York Times:

"The secrecy and refusal of the American delegation to permit anything to get out if they could help it prevented even the most industrious correspondents from properly presenting American ideals at this Council . . .

"Had American correspondents been able to keep opinion at home fully informed of American attempts to stand up for our ideals and to oppose what we felt to be wrong, our delegations could at least have gone home knowing that the people understood their difficulties and appreciated their efforts.

"It is hard to believe that they would have been blamed much, except for their LACK OF PREPARATION."

"MARRIED Life Around the World." That would make an interesting subject for a book. Take married life among the Eskimos, for example. The Eskimos often exchange wives temporarily. Not only that; an Eskimo will gladly lend his wife to a friend. That may be tops in the "anything for a pal" idea. The wife has nothing to say about being exchanged or lent. When the Eskimos ruled a wife must always obey her husband, it is apparent they were not kidding. Anway, the Eskimo matrons are not very much opposed to the exchange and lending of wives idea.

IRISH DOGS: Not only do the Irish breed great racehorses but they excel in the breeding of racing greyhounds. One of the greatest racing dogs of all time is Ballyhennessy Seal, winner of the last British Greyhound Derby. This dog was bred in Ballyhennessy, Eire. An interesting thing about this remarkable animal is that he tips off his trainer when he expects to be a certain winner. The dog gives this information by rubbing himself against his trainer's leg just before the race. If he doesn't do that he usually loses. But if he does he never fails to win. The last time Ballyhennessy rubbed himself against his trainer's legs he was a ten to one shot. The trainer taking his dog's tip bet heavily on him. Ballyhennessy won by five lengths. How I would like to own a horse like that.

RECORD: "I have been married 17 years and have never kissed any other man than my husband," writes a Chicagoan. "Is this a record?" We have no figures in our files as to the record for confining osculation to husbands only. However, we asked a Chicagoan about this communication and he said: "She should have sent it to Ripley."

CAMPUS WEDDINGS: The desire among women to be married as soon as possible has now reached alarming proportions. Anxious mothers are reported keeping their 14-year-old daughters under constant supervision fearing if not watched they will elope. Nowadays when a young woman reaches 17 and is still not a bride she begins to consider herself an old maid. College girls formerly waited at least for graduation day to be married. Now even freshmen are becoming brides. All the rage among the college cuties is "the campus wedding." This calls for the wedding to take place in the college chapel and the reception at a sorority house. All brides have a triumphant expression upon emerging from the church after the ceremony but the tops in triumphant expressions is that of a female newlywed coming from a college chapel. She knows she is driving at least a thousand watching females wild with envy. And how she enjoys it!

HEART BREAKERS: Nearly all the great charmers of history had husky voices. Once before I mentioned this fact regarding the famous feminine heartbreakers of all time. Maybe I mentioned it twice. It is prominently displayed in our Horses & Women File No. 1898D. Anyway, since I brought this matter to the attention of our subscribers a new hussky-voiced charmer has appeared on the scene. I refer to Lauren Bacall. I am now informed Miss Bacall didn't always have a husky voice but cultivated the low, captivating tones for which she is now famous by straining her voice with shouting exercises. So, young woman, maybe you too can become a husky-voiced charmer by shouting excessively. Just go to a ball game and root for the home team on Ladies' Day.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Have you ever sampled raspberry chiffon pie? A—Never. I do not find it on my list of the 116 kinds of pie. Please forward recipe. My pie policy is to try anything once . . . Q—Didn't "Ukelele Ike" Edwards introduce the ukelele to continental United States? A—I believe "Buddy" De Sylva was this country's first ukelele player. He introduced the instrument with an act called "The Six Hawaaians" at Baron Long's Vernon Country Club, Los Angeles.

SIDELIGHTS: Am asked what is the record for feminine longevity. All I know is that the Countess of Desmond died in England in 1732 A. D. at the age of 140 as a result of climbing an apple tree and falling from the topmost branch . . . Among the things I have never owned is a goldfish. This seems to be still a popular pet. That world famous goldfish breeder, George Aston of Ontario, Canada, breeds 13,000,000 goldfish annually.

"Sir, with my military career endin' soon, I wish to submit reasons why it's about time I got my first promotion!"

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

Distributed by King Features, Synd., Inc. Reproduction prohibited.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—It was just like old times at the National Theater here the other night. The place was jammed with old New Dealers, applauding madly while the American business man was held to ridicule and contempt.

The occasion was the premiere of a new play by the ex-OWI public opinion-molder, Robert E. Sherwood.

Robert Sherwood

And let me say right now it was the worst turkey I ever saw in my life.

I will admit that I am in no calm, judicial frame of mind as I write this. I am indignant.

This Sherwood thing, "The Rugged Path," purports to be theatrical entertainment. At any rate, they charge you to get in, and there is no warning that it is going to be soap-box propaganda along lines laid down by the Kremlin.

I kind of suspected Sherwood would try to sneak in some Leftist claptrap, but I did not think he would have the consummate gall to devote the entire play to it.

The star of the abomination was Spencer Tracy, and I have always admired him as an actor.

But if some of those lines didn't make him gag, he is no better than Sherwood, in my opinion.

★ ★ ★

"THE RUGGED PATH" is about a newspaper editor (Tracy) who gets sadly upset back in 1941 because this country does not throw everything it has to Russia.

Britain is mentioned too, but the emphasis is on the U.S.S.R.

The paper is owned by the editor's brother-in-law who is made out to be a very wishy-washy character, under the dominance of the business manager.

The latter, who keeps arguing that we should do more thinking about the United States and its destinies, is the villain of the piece.

He is portrayed as a pompous ass, thinking only of the advertisers, who—presumably—are all arrogant rascals, too.

He can't be made to see that our destiny lies with that great forward-thinking country, Russia.

His role is unsympathetic throughout.

Not too subtly, the implication is there at all times that the business man is a selfish dolt who has no feeling for the ultimate welfare of his country—just present revenues for his business.

The manufacturer and industrialist come in for kicks in the pants, too. Tracy gets off a line—and I hope it chokes him some night—which goes something like this:

"Freedom of the press—Hah! The only freedom of the press left is the United States is that permitted by the National Association of Manufacturers!"

★ ★ ★

THE THEATER, as I said, was loaded with the old New Dealers who are still in Washington.

Sherwood, himself, was escorted to the play by Sam Rosenman, who used to be FDR's legal adviser. They had dinner at the Carlton first and endeavored to look very important and benign.

Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter sat two seats ahead of me and kept up long-distance hailing of acquaintances as they arrived.

★ ★ ★

MR. SHERWOOD probably thinks his newest sounds a popular note right now. He has something of a reputation as a theatrical opportunist—a thing which has caused him considerable bother in the past.

At a time when pacifism was popular, he wrote "Idiot's Delight."

This was an attack upon the arms manufacturers and the armament race, "Idiot's Delight" being war.

But he called it off when people began to feel it might not be a bad idea to prepare a little for war.

Then Russia attacked Finland and the sympathies of most Americans were with the smaller nation—the only one, incidentally, which had not defaulted on its war debts.

So Sherwood perpetrated a thing called "There Shall Be No Night" which had to do with a big, hulking bully of a Russia picking on poor little Finland.

Finally we got into war on the side of Russia and against Finland—but again Sherwood was equal to the occasion.

He rewrote "There Shall Be No Night" and had it Germany picking on poor little Greece.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5—Goodness me! We've been talking a long time about the life of Al Jolson, which Columnist Sidney Skolsky will produce for Columbia. Once there was talk that Al would play himself on the screen. Now I am told that Larry Parks, who came out here three years ago from New York, will play the "Mammy" singer.

Parks, curiously enough, was the first and the last to be tested for the role. Practically every young actor in town also made a test.

Bing Crosby

Perhaps I had better say that Jolson's own voice will be dubbed in, because you just couldn't have anyone else sing for the one and only Al.

Parks has only had small parts heretofore. He was seen in "Counter Attack" and several other Columbia movies.

★ ★ ★

YOU KNOW very well that anything Bing Crosby wants at Paramount, or anywhere else, he gets—but quick, so when he expressed a wish to do a picture for Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder, well, you never saw so much activity in your life. Charles and Billy got together and whipped out an idea with an historical background in no time at all. The period will be that of Emperor Francis Joseph, and can't you hear Bing singing those beautiful old Viennese songs? There is no lovelier music in the whole world. Meanwhile, many prayers are being said that Bing will soon feel well again.

I DON'T believe I can be accused of partiality when I say that "Enchanted Cottage" put Robert Young right on the map. Especially since David Selznick agrees with me. Bob, since the Harriet Parsons picture (plug), is about the hottest actor in town. Now, on top of the one-picture-a-year contract he signed with RKO, a new contract is being readied for him to make two pictures for David O. Selznick. The title of the first one will be announced later. Incidentally, Betty and Bob expect their fourth child in about two weeks.

FURTHER NEWS on Una Merkel, who has been so desperately ill, is that she is recuperating, but it is going to be a tough, hard grind. Poor Una, everything seemed to happen to her at once—the separation from Ronald Buria, the husband she loved so much, and her mother's tragic death. Now, over the telephone, Ronnie says he has instructed his lawyer in New York to ask her for a divorce. Martin Gang, well-known local attorney, will represent Una. One of the saddest figures of the whole situation is Una's father, who lived for years in complete happiness with Mrs. Merkel, and then lost her.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Just before Danny Kaye took off for China he arrived in town from New York tired and in need of sleep. He went directly to the apartment of his brother-in-law, Bob Fine. He didn't have a pass key to the front door, but finally attracted the attention of Eddie Ebbins, who has an apartment above Fine's. Danny shouted, "Let me in. I'm Danny Kaye and my brother-in-law lives here." It was dark and Eddie yelled back at him: "Yeh! I'm Clark Gable." "Well, put on the porch light and I'll do a dance for you," promised Danny. No sooner said than done. P. S.—He got into his brother-in-law's apartment.

★ ★ ★

I SWEAR Paramount is the "discoveringest" studio in town. Right on the heels of their signing the very new John Lund, they've unearthed themselves another wonder boy. This one's name is Kirk Douglas and he bows himself in as no less than Barbara Stanwyck's husband in "Love Lies Bleeding," the next Hal Wallis production (which incidentally, is my own unfavorite title of the week). Mr. Douglas makes his debut in right smart company, for the other two big roles in this film, besides the Stanwyck one, are played by Van Heflin (marking his return to civvies) and Lisabeth Scott.

★ ★ ★

YOU REMEMBER how Lana Turner, complete with sweater and a straw in her mouth, was found in back of a soda. Well, Cathy O'Donnell is the newest Cinderella to get a movie contract by way of a soft drink. Agent Benny Medford (who did a swell discovery job on George Montgomery) saw 9-year-old Cathy at Schwab's drug store sipping away and promptly signed her and took her to Sam Goldwyn. Sam is giving the youngster her first role in "Glory For Me," which Robert Sherwood is writing and which William Wyler will direct.

★ ★ ★

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Now that the Billy Wilders' separation has reached the divorce courts, the town seems to think the lady most likely to win the favor of Billy may be Doris Dowling, sister of Constance Dowling, who played a small part in "Lost Weekend." Of course, Billy, who is one of our top directors, has been away overseas on an OWI job for months and only returned from Paris about two weeks ago. He is very popular and likable. At the moment he is living at the Ernst Lubitsch house.

★ ★ ★

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Jennifer Jones may do a play in New York if David Selznick can find one he likes, the reason Natalie Draper has been seen here and there without Merrill Pye is because he is in Mexico on the Esther Williams picture. There is no trouble between them. Natalie is remaining here to test for a movie; George Raft is missing the World's Series for the first time in ten years. Reason—a certain Betty Doss; Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd lunched with 12 Senators in Washington and then went on to the White House for a cup of tea with President Truman. Edgar and Charlie attended the opening of Spencer Tracy's "Rugged Path." Katharine Hepburn was again in the audience dressed to the teeth. Katie hasn't missed a performance.

NORMA HALL and Jackie Coogan, back together, dining at the Beverly Tropics; Arturo de Cordova is giving a dinner honoring Ann Dvorak at the opening of the new Club Donroy next Tuesday; Sir Alex Korda gave a birthday party for Lizette Verea at the "Club" Sunday and had "Happy Birthday" sung in Romanian; Lois Wilson happily wires that she is to go into John Van Druten's new play, "Mermaid's Singing."

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—Joan Crawford let her open-work mink stole slip back from her Adrian-draped shoulders, sipped at a tiny glass of pale sherry, and ordered carrots, creamed spinach with a soft poached egg on it, and a mixed green salad. Then she settled down to the kind of talk traditional at "girl" luncheons —children, slipcovers, other actresses, hats, mascara and hairdos.

Joan Crawford

At a table a few feet away Phil Terry, who was with two men, turned and lifted a champagne glass in her direction.

"I love you," he said.

Joan smiled. "I love you too, darling," she said. "I hope you have a lovely luncheon."

Then she turned back and said:

"The children are wonderful. They're six and three now. Of course, Christina is a little bossy with Philip because she's the grownup one, but they get along beautifully. And the questions! Wait till you start getting those intelligent six-year-old questions. It's wonderful and frightening at the same time."

A waiter came to the table with a bottle of champagne from Mr. Billingsley in a silver cooler, but she interjected:

"I couldn't possibly, could you?" And asked him with a devastating smile, please to give her a rain check . . . "I think we're the luckiest two people in the world, Phil and I, when I see how beautifully the children have turned out. To think of taking two adopted children from two different parts of the country and have them both tow-heads, and looking like brother and sister. Why, little Philip is the image of Phil.

"Both of them know they're adopted. I made sure of that from the very beginning. I wasn't going to have them find out from the kids at school and hate me for not telling them. Of course, the little boy is too young to know more than the word, but Christina knows what it means. If you ask her she says, proudly, 'Yes, I'm adopted. Because my mommy wanted me more than any other little girl in the world.'"

★ ★ ★

A COUPLE of nice-looking matrons with Southern accents stood rather diffidently at her elbow and asked if she'd mind signing an autograph. She gave them a wide smile from under the big brim of her hat, which was like a beige disc outlined in tightly curled brown ostrich feathers.

"I'm happy to do it," she said, and signed, her hunky amethyst and gold bracelet flashing as she wrote: "Hello, to Mary from Joan Crawford."

I believe she was sincere when she said she was happy to do it, because Joan Crawford is one motion picture star who is unashamedly happy to be a motion picture star. She enjoys being Joan Crawford.

★ ★ ★

SHE MAKES entrances and signs autographs and says "bean" for "been," and rides in a limousine. You will not catch her sluffing around town with face au naturel and a bandana tied under her chin.

Because her New York trip coincides with the release of "Mildred Pierce," she spends on an average of five hours a day giving interviews to feature writers and meeting the fan magazine editors and posing for fashion pictures. In the evening, she and Phil see the plays and visit the night clubs.

In her spare time she tries on hats (her hat turnover is enormous) and shops for her house in Second ave., antique shops, like the Flea Market. She says she's buying hats here, but no dresses — she loves Hollywood clothes, and is not sympathetic to the current silhouette in these parts.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5—Cornel Wilde has been given a new contract with an increase in salary, and will play the lead in "Chicken Every Sunday." . . . Vic Mature gets his release from the Coast Guard next week and reports back to 20th Century-Fox and pictures . . . Jimmy Stewart is on his way to Hollywood with his agent, Leland Hayward. The new deal Stewart wants with Metro is that he is paid so much per picture instead of a weekly salary. He also gets his choice of stories. If Stewart and Metro get together, Jimmy will probably do MacKinlay Kantor's "Romance of Rosy Ridge" . . . Louise Albritton and singer Danny Leonard together at LaRue's . . . Collier Young is getting out of the Navy and will be Arthur Hornblow's assistant at Metro . . . Agnes Moorehead is the leading candidate for the role of Lady Thiang in "Anna and the King of Siam."

PAULETTE GODDARD and Burgess Meredith have signed to do another picture with Ben Bogeaus, with Jean Renoir directing . . . The standout at the Warner party for their returning servicemen was Elliott Roosevelt . . . Cary Grant's next picture will be "A Very Remarkable Fellow" at RKO. This is the new title for the George M. Cohan play, "Pigeons and People" . . . Irene Ryan tells about the wac who went on the make for a girl at a strip night club. She gave him a cold look and said, "I'll have you know that a night club is no place to speak to a strange girl who lives at the Hollywood Plaza, phone Gladstone 1131."

RONALD REAGAN will do the lead in "Will Rogers" . . . Linda Darnell will be the heroine in "The High Window," another Raymond Chandler mystery story for the screen . . . Charles Russell will play Charles Boyer's younger brother in "Any Number Can Play," the story of a professional gambler, which Otto Preminger will produce and direct . . . Tom Drake and Susie Crandall, the former model who is now a Selznick contract actress, have been going places together . . . Viola Essen, who got great notices for her ballet work in the show "Hollywood Pinafore," will do the lead in the picture Ben Hecht is writing and directing for Republic . . . Ralph Richardson, that fine English actor, will come to this country to make pictures for 20th Century-Fox . . . Bebe Daniels is talking to several radio sponsors about doing an American version of "Hi Gang," her successful London air show. This air stint would be in addition to her producer chores for Hal Roach . . . Ken Scott, a magician, has interested Lauren Bacall and Dane Clark in the script he wrote, titled, "Strictly From Hunger." Dane read the script and said, "I think it's a great story, but that title, it's strictly from hunger."

WILLIAM EYTHE and Margaret Whiting are vooming . . . Peter Lawford got home late one night to find the curbstone in front of his house lined with bobby soxers seeking his autograph. They not only got his autograph, but Peter's mother made him take the bobby soxers home, as she believed it was too late for them to be out.

★ ★ ★

GEORGE RAFT'S next picture is "Congresswoman." . . . Mary Pickford has shelved "Lona Henry" and would like to sell the property . . . Billy Wilder is working on a story which will take place in ruined Berlin. Wilder hasn't got a title for it as yet. All he knows is the material, the locale, and the fact that the romance is between a GI and a German girl . . . Because of the current interest in all of F. Scott Fitzgerald's writings, Warners are trying to get a scenario out of "The Beautiful and Damned" for Lauren Bacall and Helmut Dantine . . . Hurd Hatfield and Virginia Hunter are vooming . . . Gregory Ratoff, talking to a friend, said, "I make it a rule never to mix business with pleasure." The friend asked, "What is this?" Ratoff replied, "Oh, this is a combination of business and pleasure." But don't get me wrong, I love Hollywood.

Boston After Dark

MAKING the rounds is the story that one of Boston's most famous clubs, whose wealthy and devoted members are numbered among the heavy spenders, will be converted to a "class" restaurant on the model of Twenty-One (21 E. 52d st) . . . The place has an ideal location near the Ritz-Carlton . . . The Myles Standish Hotel is making a bid for the late supper trade . . . The hotel in Kenmore sq. is keeping open its English Room until 1 a. m. . . . We can recommend the delicious waffles (with bacon or sausages), but the menu carries heavier items, including steaks . . . The theory motivating Gil Johnson, the hotel's manager, is that thousands of Brookline, Newton, Brighton and Wellesley commuters would like to stop for food on their way home but beyond the downtown congested districts.

★ ★ ★

SPEAKING of the Myles Standish, it is time that Peter Wilde, Manager Johnson's right hand, is given some attention . . . Mr. Wilde came to Boston with a forward-looking background . . . It was he who made the Glenn Island Casino in New Jersey famous by arranging with friends in the radio business to hook up the late Glen Miller, Woody Herman and other bandleaders and their units on coast-to-coast radio "wires" . . . Pete later managed the Century Hotel in New York . . . The Johnson-Wilde combination has made the Myles Standish cocktail lounge one of the most popular oases in town . . . Buddy Bonds, Pete Webber, Dick Betts and Arthur Ray have been among the entertainers launched to Boston popularity at the Myles Standish.

★ ★ ★

THE SHERATON CORP. (which owns the Myles, the Copley Plaza, the Beaconsfield, among other hotels) has voted to appoint a general manager of entertainment for the 16 major hotels in the chain where music and acts are being used . . . (The Plaza alone spends $30,000 a year for entertainment) . . . If the chain acquires the Savoy-Plaza in New York in the pending merger with U. S. Realty Corp., it will have a New York outlet of national fame.

★ ★ ★

WITHOUT the Plaza, Sheraton hotels in Rochester, Philadelphia, Worcester, Springfield and Daytona Beach are outlets for expensive bands and acts . . . The entertainment directorship will be a plum . . . Arki-Yavensonne was proposed for the job, but Arki is busy in Florida at the Polk Hotel in Haines City. (Besides, Arki was "proposed" only, and not appointed) . . . Sheraton Corp. events are important to Boston, because this is the headquarters of the growing hotel chain and the home of important stockholders . . . Friends of Newton "Newt" Smith, former manager of the Copley Plaza, will be pleased to learn that he has been promoted to assistant to the vice-president in charge of operations of all Sheraton Hotels.

★ ★ ★

CHATTER: Little Bobby Consolo, 3-year-old son of Robert Consolo, Sr., known in the Boston market as "the banana king," is en route to Miami for his third season in the tropics. (The trek to Miami, by the way, has begun) . . . Cong. Clare Luce might have gotten her inspiration for her acid play "The Women" from the beauty shop in downtown Boston owned and operated by the fabulous Etta, a hard-working young lady who nonetheless finds time to make friends and customers at the popular ringsides of the city (notably that of the Music Box) . . . The informal atmosphere of Etta's shop and the stylizing talents of its owner have caught on (the girls say) so that the reservation list is longer than the Statler's for Hildegarde . . . There's a message at this desk for Harris Leveson, the Del Ray, Florida, cafe owner.

★ ★ ★

EDDIE DAVIS, the boss of the Fox and Hounds and Rhumba Casino, has acquired a site overlooking the Charles River (on the Boston bank) which he intends to use as the ground for a modern apartment house after the California motif . . . The proposed Davis apartment house will be five stories high . . . The apartments will be 2 and 3 room units . . . A penthouse will occupy half of the roof, and a solarium for use of tenants and their guests will take up the balance of the roof space.

Lotion Prepares Skin for Fall Winds

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT HAS ALWAYS BEEN our belief that an ounce of prevention is worth the proverbial pound of cure . . . prosaic as the thought is. It holds true in daily routine . . . in pursuance of various activities, actual and anticipated . . . and there's no earthly reason why it shouldn't hold true in a woman's quest for greater facial appeal.

We venture to say there would be fewer heartaches and headaches . . . if women would take a little time out each day to pamper that god-given attractiveness . . . learn to care for the cause of facial loveliness.

So it is logical to assume that if a woman took time out . . . when the first fall winds begin to blow . . . to condition her skin, it wouldn't be so rough, tough and shoe-leathery when the ice and cold of winter descends upon us in relentless fury. What's the good of trying to coax the complexion back to loveliness after the damage has set in . . . when now such damage could be easily prevented?

It's the help you give your skin before exposure which guards against the annoyance of chapping and roughness. And we know of no more delightful all-purpose lotion than the one we're discussing which is THE precaution to save such discomfort. It's a joy to use . . . helps keep the skin in a normal healthy state . . . and wards off dryness caused by exposure to harsh, fall weather.

PROTECT YOUR HANDS

Don't hoard it all for yourself. Train the children to use it as a body rub each evening after their hot bath. Again in the morning . . . before school . . . rub it on their hands, face and knees. Much of the grubbiness which clings to rough, chapped skin might be avoided if their skin were smoothed with this wonderful lotion.

It is such a really good preventive that even the man of the house can use it as an after-shave lotion . . . mine does . . . as well for hands and face in outdoor work. It is soothing to sensitive skin . . . has a nice, clean smell . . . is non-greasy . . . and a "must" with all sports enthusiasts . . . or am I rushing the season? During the day . . . whether your business is a household or office routine . . . use this lotion to protect your hands from each grubby job . . . and always after the hands have been in soapy water. You won't have a dry, drawn feeling anywhere on your body if you treat your skin to this gentle liquid soother.

For the name of this 8-ounce bottle of lotion skin protector, and it costs only $1, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COME WIND or gale, rain or snow, your skin will always be as soft and smooth as silk . . . free from the grubbiness of chapping and roughness, twin children of winter's cold and ice . . . if you use a delightfully soothing lotion now in early fall that's true to the old story, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Seems Like Blind Trail

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm in love with a man who has been divorced but still goes to see his wife. He talks about her whenever he is with me, and says he will always love her. I can't understand their separation, as I hear that she loves him too. They have a little daughter.

I'm 30 years old, have a good professional job, and have been wondering if I'm wise to keep up this friendship. Do you think it possible he will remarry her?

UNHAPPY.

Your letter, all of which I have not given, convinces me you are following a blind trail in wasting any more time on this divorced man.

The sensible thing for you is to ask yourself a couple of questions: (a) Is he keeping away another man for whom you might learn to care and eventually marry? Or (b) What expense to your peace of mind will this friendship cost?

If you break with him it will possibly cause you some pangs, but these may be highly beneficial. Only you can decide

Aid Newcomer

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My former roommate in boarding school, a dear friend of mine with whom I have corresponded since our school days, has just written me that an intimate friend of hers, a young married woman who has lived in her city, is coming here to live. Her husband, who is just out of the service, has accepted a position here. My friend wrote me their address here. Now just what do I do about meeting this newcomer to our city? G. D

To show your friendly interest and welcoming hospitality, telephone (or write a note to) this newcomer, explain that your mutual friend wrote you that she had come to live in your city, and ask her when it would be convenient for her to have you drop in to see her. When you go, invite her to your home. And if it is possible for you, help her to "get started" by perhaps giving a tea for her thus introducing her to some of your women friends; or perhaps give a Sunday evening buffet, inviting both women and men guests.

Goodies for Boys Overseas

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

THERE IS LESS than two weeks' time to prepare Christmas gifts for service people overseas. And there's nothing quite so welcome as a box from home with mom's homemade fruit cake, cookies or candy.

You'll find that these delicacies will travel better if packed in a strong tin box. When packing cookies, wrap three or four together in waxed paper and pack tightly in rows standing on edge between cardboard walls, filling all spaces and top with clean crumpled paper. Seal the box with adhesive tape around top to keep lid on and air and moisture out. Then wrap in heavy corrugated paper.

OLD-FASHIONED FRUIT CAKE

½ cup shortening ½ cup milk
½ cup orange marmalade
1 cup molasses ⅝ tsp. soda
2 tsp. lemon rind
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt. 1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. allspice ½ tsp. cloves
2 eggs, unbeaten ½ tsp. mace
1½ cups chopped pitted dates
1½ cups chopped raisins
1 cup dried currants or figs
1 cup chopped nuts
½ cup maraschino cherries or candied cherries, chopped

Cream shortening, orange marmalade and lemon rind together. Slowly add molasses, beating constantly. Sift together dry ingredients and add ½ cup to molasses mixture. Add eggs; beat well. Add remaining dry ingredients with milk and fruit. Pour into two 10x4¾-inch loaf pans which have had bottoms lined with paper and have been well greased and floured slightly. Bake in slow oven (300 deg. F.) for 1½ hours. Makes 3½ lbs.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

½ cup shortening 1 egg
½ cup sugar ½ cup molasses
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ tsp. vanilla ½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. cinnamon ½ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped nuts
⅔ cup chocolate chips

Cream together shortening and sugar. Slowly add molasses, stirring all the while. Add eggs; beat well. Sift together the dry ingredients and add to creamed mixture; mix well. Stir in nuts and chocolate chips. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) about 10 minutes. Makes about 50 cookies.

VINEGAR TAFFY

2 cups sugar ½ tsp. salt
1½ cups white corn syrup
1 tbsp. vinegar
½ cup evaporated milk

Mix sugar, syrup, salt and vinegar. Cook slowly until sugar is melted, then pour milk in slowly, keeping candy boiling all the time. Boil briskly to firm ball stage (248 deg. F.). Pour into buttered pan. When cool enough to handle, pull until candy is light and no longer sticky to the touch. Lay on waxed paper or buttered pan. Cut with scissors. Wrap in waxed paper. Makes about 2 lbs.

RAISIN CARAMELS

1 cup sugar 2 cups cream
½ cup white corn syrup
½ cup evaporated milk
⅛ tsp. salt 1 tsp. vanilla
1½ cups seedless raisins

Combine sugar, corn syrup and half the cream and bring to a good boil, then add remaining cream and milk slowly enough to keep the batch boiling constantly. Stir all the time. Cook until it will form a medium hard ball (240 deg. F.) when tested in cold water. Remove from fire, add salt, vanilla and raisins. Pour into a greased pan to cool. When cold cut in squares. This may be marked into squares while still warm. (A medium hard ball is one that feels firm but will flatten at a slight pressure between the fingers.)

Skirts Have Personality

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THERE is relief in sight for girls who like to go out on a date and dance without putting on a long evening dress. In the styles this fall there are date dresses with personality skirts, and these allow you to step out without looking funny. It must be admitted that the narrow skirt, without a break to it does look more than a little comic worn on a dance floor. While designers still have to keep the rules of L-85 they have found ways to bring grace to the skirt.

One way this is done is shown in the Jo Copeland model in our sketch. This brilliant young designer puts cascading jabot-like draperies down the sides of a front panel in the skirt, and in this way makes it very nice in movement. The dress is made of black crepe with deep armhole sleeves and a round neckline. Mirror buttons set at the front of the skirt give brillance to the dress.

BERLINERS EATING ACORNS

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (AP) — Berliners are gathering acorns in woods around the city for use in making puddings and ersatz coffee.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—Is there a local educational advisory office, other than those operated by the government, where a veteran may obtain information? T. B., Waltham.

A—It is suggested that the veteran contact Miss Zelda Lyons, Director, Prospect Union Educational Exchange, 13 Brattle st., Cambridge.

Q—As soldiers are enlisted for the duration and six months, does this mean that they will be discharged by the end of six months after V-J Day? Y. V., Falmouth.

A—The "duration" is not ended with the announcement of V-J Day. The end of the "duration" is at such time as the President, with the consent of Congress, makes declaration of the official end of the war.

Q—My husband has been in the service since Sept. 16, 1940, and overseas since November, 1944, and has three battle stars. How many points does he have through May 12, 1945? D. O'L., Fitchburg.

A—He has 57 points for length of service, 7 points for overseas duty, 5 each for the three battle stars; total of 79, as of May 12, 1945.

Q—I have received a claim of over-payment on my Family Allowance. Do I have to pay it back or will they take the money from my husband's pay? A. C., Brighton.

A—The Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark, N. J., makes claim to you for refund of the over-payment as you were the person who received it. It will not be adjusted by withholding the soldier's pay unless he requests that the account be balanced in this way. If you are not aware of receiving any amount over and above what was due you, it is suggested that you contact the Personal Affairs Branch, Headquarters First Service Command, Boston, for explanation in the matter.

Q—My daughter died recently and her husband is in the service. He had made his Government insurance payable to her. Now that his wife is dead, he is making it payable to his brother. He has a child and I am taking care of it and receive the Family Allowance. I would like to know if the soldier isn't obliged to make the insurance payable to his child, "Mother," Fall River.

A—No, he isn't obliged to make the Government insurance payable to his child. He may designate as beneficiary any of the following persons: wife, child, parent, brother or sister.

Q—My son has a Class E allotment to pay for his commercial insurance. He is now being returned to this country. Will the allotment be discontinued as soon as he arrives here? I would like to know, so that I can try to pay it for him, as I don't want it to lapse on him. S. A., Quincy.

A—The Class E allotment for payment of your son's commercial insurance will continue to be paid as long as he is on active duty, unless he cancels it himself before that.

DANGER ON THE PRODUCTION FRONT

How Much Will You Have to Pay for Your New Car? How Long Will You Have to Wait to Get It?

RECONVERSION BOGGING DOWN Strikes are threatening the entire automobile industry. General Motors is being specifically singled out for attack to enforce unreasonable demands. Some of our plants have already been closed and shipment of materials from the plants of many of our suppliers has already been stopped by strikes.

The interests of all Americans should be considered. This is not only a General Motors problem. It is a national one as well. If our plants are closed by strikes the strikes will be against the interests of all the people of our country as much as they will be against General Motors.

AFTERMATH OF WAR While the war is over, the aftermath of war presents big problems. War is terribly wasteful in blood and treasure. This one was especially so. It was not prosperity even though to some it may have seemed to be. And the immediate aftermath of such a war cannot be prosperity either. The clean-up, the mopping-up, the reconversion still require hard work, patience, understanding, and some sacrifice on the part of all of us.

INDUSTRY ON THE JOB Our fighting men crushed our enemies with the huge quantity of weapons produced by American industry. But that is behind us. We would like to have been better prepared for peace, but the terrific demands of the war for men and materials did not make this possible. Now we have planned a second all-out effort and stand ready and anxious to do an equally impressive job.

PROBLEMS OF RECONVERSION American industry has proved its ability to perform. It has the know-how, the resources, the courage to push ahead. But even with these fine assets it cannot do the job alone. It must have the goodwill and backing of the people of our country. Our second all-out effort to meet a critical situation will bog down unless the real facts are recognized and sound measures promptly taken to solve the problems. Temporarily, while we are liquidating the war, there should be a sound national wage-price policy to stabilize and expand the economy.

DANGER OF INFLATION The most serious threat we face is that of runaway inflation. The danger comes from three sources: first, the wartime and current tremendous deficit spending of our government; second, the pent-up demands for goods and services to the point where some are willing to pay excess prices even in black markets to satisfy their impatient and selfish desires; third, the desires of equally selfish unions to take advantage of the situation and force unreasonable wage increases.

Inflation is the worst of all economic diseases. It reduces the value of money in terms of what money will buy. It reduces the value of the savings of the people. It undermines security. It underwrites depression. It destroys confidence. It creates unemployment. Inflation must be avoided.

REAL PRICES In a free market and in the absence of subsidies and speculation, the cost of human effort, be it in the form of wages, salaries or other forms of compensation, quickly determines the price we pay for goods.

Higher wages without a corresponding increase in productivity are inflationary. Nothing is gained unless higher wages mean more goods and services, more customers and more good jobs. This requires individual application to the job in hand and technological progress all along the line—better ways of doing all the things that must be done to produce and deliver products to customers at reasonable prices. This takes time.

A minority, by monopoly or by pressure group action, may temporarily profit at the expense of others. But the idea of wage increases all along the line without a corresponding increase in productivity is a delusion. All the people cannot lift themselves by their bootstraps.

UNION DEMANDS Today, unions in our plants are demanding 52 hours' pay for 40 hours' work. Their demands if granted would result in over 67 hours' pay at present base rates for 48 hours of work where plants are working on such a schedule.

Equivalent or greater demands have been made on our suppliers—the parts manufacturers—the electrical industry—the steel industry—the rubber industry—the oil and gasoline industry—the railroads—in fact, on practically every industry involved in the production of automobiles.

WAGES AND PRICES General Motors wages are now at an all-time high and are importantly higher than the average wages paid throughout the country for similar work.

The present government stabilization policy permits wage increases without government approval only if such increases will not result in a request to increase prices. The formula the OPA has proposed for pricing our new products does not recognize or allow all the actual increases in our costs that have been incurred since 1942.

Neither is there any provision in the present OPA formula for increasing prices to compensate for the additional costs that would be incurred if wages and salaries were increased at this time.

A sound and equitable solution must be found in the interests of not only our 400,000 employes, but our 426,000 stockholders, our 15,214 automobile dealers, who have had no new cars for over three years, our 10,000 subcontractors and suppliers and their employes, and the more than 10,000,000 potential customers who are anxiously waiting for new cars and our other products they need so badly.

WARTIME PROFITS General Motors did not make big profits during the war. Although sales and employment doubled, the average yearly net profit in dollars earned during the war was less than the average pre-war net profit. Dividends paid to stockholders averaged less than those paid before the war.

The war profit limitation policy voluntarily adopted by General Motors immediately after Pearl Harbor was so reasonable that the resulting profits were accepted in renegotiation without change by our government for the years 1942, 1943 and 1944.

During the war, Victory Was Our Business.

EXCESS WAGES REFUSED Demands are being made for higher wages without any corresponding increase in production, on the assumption that the additional costs can be absorbed from profits previously earned or from uncertain future profits.

General Motors cannot use money saved up for many years for the purpose of modernizing and expanding its plants and providing more good jobs, to pay excess wages for work not performed. The money cannot be spent twice.

Neither can excess wages be currently paid from presumed future excess profits when a realistic forecast of costs shows there will be no such excess profits.

Nor can we pay from current income the increased wages demanded when the present OPA policy holds prices to substantially 1942 levels—especially in view of the fact that there have been important increases in wages and operating costs since 1942.

Runaway inflation must be avoided. If an adjustment in price levels must be made at this time, the interests of all the people must be fairly considered.

If wage and salary increases are made, it must be recognized that they increase costs and such costs must be adequately reflected in the prices of products produced.

Internal strife and unemployment must be avoided. Only productive work and more good jobs will increase our standard of living and satisfy the desires of the American people.

an Everett man, also held, because no insurance company would approve him with his prison record.

He said he met the Everett man while both were working as molders in a Waltham war plant. He said he had been loafing for two months because of a back injury.

When the Everett suspect took his turn in the lineup, he admitted registering the cars for his pal. He said he was given $100 to register the Cadillac but nothing for the Lincoln.

The gang leader also used the Everett man's driving license, he admitted. The Everett suspect said he reported the license stolen so he could replace it. He admitted getting gasoline coupons by giving false information to the ration board.

Three other male members of the gang are held and will be questioned later.

They were arrested by four detectives after days of checking on their movements. Lt. John Willard, Sgt. Arthur Tiernan and Detectives William Philbrick and William Boudreau were given credit for ending the gang's career of crime.

Before the safe-breaking suspects were taken into the lineup, two South Boston men were identified as the robbers of two taxicab drivers.

Edward Hill of Wells ave., Dorchester, picked one of the pair as the man who shoved a gun at his face while riding in his taxicab and stole $4.

Patrolman John Abraham of Division 9 pointed to the other suspect as the man he saw getting into a cab at Upham's Corner, Dorchester, Sept. 27. The driver later reported he had been robbed at gunpoint in Silver st., South Boston.

A Concord Reformatory parolee denied he held up and robbed George McGinn, 26, a Navy seaman, in the Hotel Statler washroom. He was arrested after McGinn chased him into Arlington st. McGinn's watch was found at his feet.

The suspect was believed to be "Mutt" of the notorious holdup team of "Mutt and Jeff," blamed for a series of robberies. The pair held up the Haffenraffer & Co. brewery yesterday but fled empty-handed after overlooking $1000.

Vets Adopting U. S. War Babies

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 5 (AP)—Overseas veterans who find their wives have been faithless are adopting children "for whom they cannot possibly be responsible" in a startling number of cases, the Oregon State Bar's legal aid committee said yesterday.

Reasons for this, the committee reported, are: (1) The ex-serviceman wants to keep his home together; (2) Homeless tots in war-ravaged lands have tugged at his heartstrings.

The committee, which provides free legal service when veterans can't afford to pay, said of one veteran who adopted a child not his own: "Having seen the starving, hungry and abused children of Europe he had compassion for all children."

SYRIANS TO HALT JEWS

DAMASCUS, Oct. 5 (INS)—The Syrian ministry of the interior today ordered motorized detachments sent to the Syro-Palestine frontier to halt a flow of allegedly illegal Jewish immigrants across the border.

Beaux as Lure!

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct., 5 (AP)—So hard up is Key West for high school teachers that Principal Horace O'Bryant has offered qualified young women instructors the guarantee of a "Navy lieutenant, with or without wings," if they'll take a job.

O'Bryant made his offer after he had to close six classes because of a lack of teachers.

The salary is limited at $1782.50, but O'Bryant believes there are compensating conditions. He points out Key West is a naval base with thousands of eligible young men, and the winter climate is just about ideal.

O'Bryant said he spent more than $75 on telegrams in efforts to get teachers, from Maine to California.

Mother's Plea Aids Bandit

After a tearful leniency plea by his mother, George K. Kenney, 25, of Empire st., Allston, dishonorably discharged Navy veteran, today escaped with a one-year sentence on his plea of guilt in Suffolk Superior Court to a $15 Dorchester holdup Sept. 8.

His partner, Alfred Dalley, 32, of Carson st., Dorchester, who pleaded guilty to the same charges, was sentenced by Judge Allan G. Buttrick to five to seven years in State Prison.

Kenney, most recently in the merchant marine, was given probation on the robbery charge and one year for using a taxi without authority.

In pleading for her son, Mrs. Mary Kenney told Judge Buttrick that her boy had always led a good life until he became discouraged over being dropped by the Navy.

RECONVERSION AID TOLD

Reconversion in this region will be aided if Navy contractors having cancelled contracts file their termination claims promptly, said M. D. Liming, managing director of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Parade, Mass In East Boston

A memorial mass, dedicated to World War II heroes and their fallen comrades, will be held Friday, Oct. 12, at 9:30 a. m. at Mt. Carmel church, East Boston.

John Gehm

Preceding this Columbus Day service, a parade will start at Central sq. at 8:30 a. m., proceeding down Meridian st. to Maverick st. to the church, where mass will be celebrated by a representative of Archbishop Cushing.

The tribute is sponsored by East Boston Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and World War II veterans. John Gehm, president of the order and chairman of the affair, extended an invitation to all military, fraternal, civic and social organizations to participate.

Inez Robb's Slogan After World Hop: Do Not Disturb

By INEZ ROBB

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (INS) —That sign on the door means just what it says, brother—"Do not disturb."

This globe trotter is sleeping late today.

Circumnavigating the world in a record-making six days, five hours and 43 minutes leaves one tired and with a yen for a bed without wings and four roaring motors.

The world-circling Globester, which left Washington at 5 p. m. last Friday, returned at 9:40 p. m. yesterday with her eight slightly beat-up global passengers, myself included.

For the statistical minded, the inaugural flight of a new world passenger service run by the AAF Air Transport Command covered 23,278 miles. We rocketed around the world in 149 hours and 43 minutes, one hour and 17 minutes less than the estimated time.

We spent only 30 hours and one minute on the ground either in refueling or in changing planes, but were going strong at the finish despite our tiredness.

In my case I dropped four pounds somewhere along the route and my two-way stretch is a little looser. My hairdresser also has a reconversion job on her hands.

The Globester could have made the trip in six days flat or less if she had not developed engine trouble out of Guam and if she had not been forced to throttle down on her flights into Honolulu, San Francisco and Washington lest she arrive in these places ahead of the official receptions.

Fans Swing 'n' Sway With Kaye

Sammy Kaye's swing-and-sway syncopation and showmanship keynote the new stage show, which yesterday developed an epidemic of school absenteeism resulting in a capacity house at the RKO Boston.

This is not to say that the new show is a humdinger for other than the bobbysoxers. It is mildly enjoyable, with no bell-ringing acts.

The band tees off with "It's Gotta Be This or That," and then Arthur Wright sings "Till the End of Time" in an agreeable voice. Mack and Desmond, who blend tap-dancing with nonsense, are cute tricks. Following them, a pretty warbler, named Susan Allan, breaks down all sales resistance with "I'll Buy That Dream."

"Caldonia," featuring tenorist Clubby Silvers, is given a vigorous interpretation and then Betty Barclay, with a deceptive baby-talking routine, abruptly shocks your ears with such lyrics as "I wanna do the things Forever-Amber did."

Billy Williams satisfies with "I'm Gonna Love That Gal" and "If I Loved You," and then he and Betty get together on "My Dreams Are Getting Better." Cy Reeves, a deadpan comic, forgets he's not in a nightclub with some very blue, unfunny recitals. Funnier are the impromptu performances of four amateur band leaders from the audience . . . Bob McDonald, Salem; Paul Brickley, Roxbury; Edward Cogswell, Dorchester, and Cornelius Sullivan, Randolph. They and future contestants will compete for prizes in Kaye's audience participation feature, "So You Want to Lead a Band," at week's end. P. D.

JANE RICE, who will be heard and seen during the engagement of the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company, opening a two-week engagement at the Opera House on Monday evening.

Ticket Sale Opens For New Wilbur Play

Tickets are now on sale at the Wilbur boxoffice for Oscar Serlin's production of the new Theodore Reeves' play, "Beggars Are Coming To Town," which opens a two-week engagement at that theater on Monday evening. Paul Kelly, Luther Adler and Dorothy Comingore are the featured players.

Bravos for Ballet Theater

By PEGGY DOYLE

Ovations drowned out the music as the Ballet Theater's newest ballet and youngest stars . . . as of last night . . . provided another lovely incident in an exciting but too brief engagement of ballet in the grand manner.

Markova and Dolin, whose distinguishing presence in the group this season is a matter for deep rejoicing among the Opera House balletomanes, danced with the buoyancy and skill in "Swan Lake" that justified the fervent applause.

Eglevsky was a magnificently harmonious and lyrical Paris in Lichine's disappointing "Helen of Troy," presented for the first time in Boston opening night.

But it was for youthful Michael Kidd's "On Stage!" which was being given its world premiere at the Opera House last evening, and its unusually fresh performance by Choreographer Kidd and the company's only red-haired ballerina, lovely, little Janet Reed, and an excellent supporting cast that the balletomanes reserved their most spontaneous and sustained applause.

"On Stage!" with Norman Dello Joio's score mirroring the varying nuances of its gay-sad behind-the-scenes episode in ballet life, was es welcome after the traditional indispensable, "Swan Lake," as a gust of fresh air. It has color and vigor and the roguish spontaneity of its aptly surnamed creator.

Stunning Nora Kaye and her partner, John Kriza, in the roles of the "The Captive Princess and Her Hero," and John Taras, as the Ballet Master, performed to perfection. Shirley Eckl, as the Girl in Blue, and Miss Reed, as the Girl in Pink, auditioning for admittance to the company (standing or practicing leaps in bright-hued rehearsal costumes), were charming to watch.

There was an enchanting informality about the new ballet, which was wired for sound for our unaccustomed ears and which also revealed unexpected dramatic talent.

"On Stage!" is the something new and stimulating, and Markova's magical dancing that puts freshness in the ballet standby, "Swan Lake," and the wonderfully lyrical quality of Eglevsky's dancing are proof that the Ballet Theater is in good form again.

More of the Task Force And Patton's Son-in-Law

By AUSTEN LAKE

Austen Lake

IT WAS LATE EVENING. The time was last April 10. The place was Gotha, a freshly captured town in German Thuringia where the 4th Armored Division was having a brief respite before starting another violent lunge at the Nazis' heart.

So I drifted into the temporary command post set up in a luxury mansion from which a German industrialist had been summarily ejected. As the lone correspondent attached to the 4th I had broad social privileges and was not bound by military ceremony. So I entered without knocking and joined some officers gathered 'round a table.

Usually they were a congenial company who shoved over and passed the bottle. But this time they were oddly silent. I sensed electricity in the air. Then suddenly I noticed Capt. Abraham Baum and it was like seeing someone risen from the tomb. For Baum hadn't been heard from since leading the disastrous task force mission to liberate Hammelburg prison stalag, wherein was Gen. Patton's son-in-law. The task force had been obliterated. We thought of him as dead!

But here he was, this former pattern maker for a ladies' garment firm in New York and a first class fighting man. So now he sat with bandaged hands and a bullet hole in his hip. He'd been rescued from a German hospital by the Seventh Army.

Sgt. Thomas Adds To the Tale

BAUM WASN'T A DESCRIPTIVE TALKER. He just gave a cold skeleton outline of his mission's fate as though reciting a railroad time table. He'd only known that his orders said to liberate the Hammelburg stalag. No, he hadn't known that Gen. Patton's son-in-law was a PW there—until later! And he stoutly defended the value of his foray and told of the havoc it had created behind German lines. It was a tale of heroic resolution under constant ambushes and harassing fire and battles, while his men and weapons gradually dwindled to a shadow. But he'd reached his objective!

A singular thing happened as I was typing these lines today. My office door opened and a lean youth in civilian clothes entered. He wore a gold discharge button in his lapel and he said he was ex-S-Sgt. Walter E. Thomas of 1 Leonard pl., South Boston, one of 20-odd survivors of that Fourth Armored task force who had been discharged from Camp Knox. "I read your story," he said.

And he furnished fragments of that Hammelburg fight which were missing in Baum's recitation; how the leading tanks had battered through the heavy barbed wire fence around the prison and blown the sentry towers to kindling; how tanks and infantry had driven into the compound and liberated the PWs.

"They were wild with joy," said Thomas, who was later captured. "But most of them were too weak to move and when then found they'd have to walk, stayed right where they were. I piled about 30 PWs on my tank and rolled them out to a field where we were forming for the getaway—what was left of us. Among those PWs were Lt.-Col. John Waters and a Col. Good, who crawled through the turret of my tank and lay on the floor.

"But we were pretty well banged up and the column delayed pulling out. So Col. Waters got impatient and went back to find Capt. Baum or Maj. Stiller to see what was holding up the parade. I didn't know then that Maj. Stiller was Gen. Patton's personal aide! That's the last I saw of Waters. But later when some of us met in a prison camp near Nuernberg, a half-track driver said Waters had climbed on the side of his vehicle and was riding there when a bullet hit him and he fell off. He didn't know how bad he was hit because all hell was popping and our guys were dropping like flies."

At the moment Baum had his hands full trying to reorganize his column, siphon gasoline out of damaged half-tracks and collect his wounded in a near-by barn. But he'd been told that Waters was walking along under a white flag when an SS trooper shot him through the intestines. That's all he knew, said Baum, because at that moment a German column opened up "with the most intensive automatic cannon fire" he ever saw, "worse than at Bastogne."

"There was a sudden white flash," says ex-Sgt. Thomas, "a German shell hit the barn where our wounded lay and it collapsed. Our guys were running in all directions and being mowed down by dozens. I climbed up on my tank and opened fire and we fought back as well as we could. But it was hopeless."

Baum, as my notes state, said, "It was no go! It was about 3:30 and still dark. I'd burned eight deserted halftracks and was preparing to move off with about 20 of the original 53 vehicles and less than 100 of the 301 men. But when this Kraut force hit us, including some Tiger tanks, it wrecked all our rolling stock. So I ordered the men to hit for the woods, where I instructed them to break up into groups of four and try to work their way home.

"Maj. Stiller and I hid in a pine grove, but they ran us down and I got shot in the leg. Then they herded seven of us under a one-man guard and marched us back to the camp. I reached for my steel helmet to bash the guard over the head, but Stiller grabbed me and said 'No.' It's just as well, or we'd all be dead now."

The Germans didn't discover his identity, said Baum, because he pretended to be an ex-PW. So they put him in a hospital with some Czech prisoners, under two American medic officers, a Capt. Brubacher and a Maj. Byrnes.

And two days later the 14th Armored swept up and liberated the camp again, which it would have done anyway. So Patton's rescue plan, whatever its purpose, served no purpose at all, except death, wounds and disaster, including grievous hurts to his son-in-law.

"I got wounded and captured with some other soldiers," says ex-Sgt. Thomas, "and when he got to Neurnberg's stalag, the talk among our PW's was all about how we'd liberated Patton's son-in-law and that was the big argument until we were discharged two weeks ago at Camp Knox. The guys felt pretty bad for themselves but worse for their many buddies who never got to come home, but are lying over there somewhere forever."

Passeau Faces Tigers

By JOE CASHMAN

DETROIT, Oct. 5—This World Series, now tied up, moves on to Chicago after the third game out at Briggs Stadium this afternoon. It will still be in its infancy, so to speak, when it moves westward. But its destiny may well be settled before it shifts scenes.

Hank Greenberg

The first game which found the Cubs in front 9-0, was important. Getting the jump in a short series always counts a lot.

The second game, from the Tigers' standpoint, was crucial. They had to bound back to remain in contention. They did, with a 4-1 victory which a three-run homer by Capt. Hank Greenberg and seven-hit pitching by Virgil "Fire" Trucks fashioned.

But this third game looms as the biggest of all; big for the Cubs, bigger for the Tigers.

It's like this.

If the Tigers don't repeat their triumph of yesterday, they'll be a game down when they march into Wrigley Field in the Windy City tomorrow. In that event, in order to win the championship they'll have to take three out of four games on the Cubs' back yard. The odds against that are all the dollars Walter Briggs and Henry Ford possess to the pin money you and I are lucky to have.

The odds won't be quite as heavy against the Cubs if they lose. They'll have the advantage of playing the remaining games at home. But that advantage doesn't figure to be enough to enable them to take three out of four.

In other words, today's winner ought to be the eventual winner.

Pitching this game is a task no pitcher would envy and a burden which will be carried by Frank "Stubby" Overmire, diminutive southpaw of the Tigers, and Claude Passeau, elongated veteran righthander of the Cubs.

Overmire was the most lightly regarded of the regular Bengal boxmen over the campaign. He finished up with a mediocre 9-9 card, where mates like Newhouser, Trout and Benton were winning hurlers. But both Newhouser and Benton were used in the first game and Trout is having arm miseries.

So the assignment goes to "Stubby," a 26-year-old Michigan boy serving his third season with the American League champions.

The Cubs used their two leading pitchers, "Hank" Borowy and "Hank" Wyse in the first two games. Passeau rates next highest on the National Leaguers' staff, so he gets the nod this p. m.

This 34-year-old Chicagoan out of Mississippi has had a checkered career. Breaking in 10 years ago, he was with the Pirates and Phils before becoming a Cub in 1940.

Only last winter his pitching days seemed over. His arm went dead. An operation was necessary. Doctors feared he was through as a big leaguer. Yet he came back and had 10 victories, nine of them in a row to his credit by mid-July.

BULLETIN

DETROIT, Oct. 5 (INS)—The weather man threatened to halt the proceedings at Briggs Stadium today. His prediction was occasional light rains. A spokesman said "as yet the game has not been called off, and will be played if at all possible."

Lynn English Faces Classy Beverly Team

By MIKE GILLOOLY

According to the standard it has set in its three games this season, Lynn English High School should win another tonight at Manning Bowl, Lynn, but Coach Nick Morris, unusually pessimistic, holds out slim hope for his riddled gridders against the classy Beverly outfit in a nifty Class B pairing.

Coach Morris is being tormented with injuries—mostly in the minor key—but one serious enough to bench co-captain Bob Bolger, possibly for the remainder of the season.

English victories on the gridiron of late years have been few and far between. Since the division of the city deprived the boys of their choice between Classical and English, the Classicals have been getting the better break in the talent. Coach Morris realized this so he worked last fall, building up experienced material for a banner 1945 campaign.

And it wasn't long before he had the English outfit rolling. On their first outing this campaign, the Morris A. C. deadlocked Class B defending champion Chelsea. The tempo picked up against Lowell, a 12-0 triumph. Then, English fell back into its deadlock rhythm in a 7-7 knot with Salem, just half a notch off the Class A crown in '44.

But now, injuries have popped into the picture. Bolger's loss, through a knee crack-up, has forced an entire shake-up in the backfield. Jim Dukas' trick shoulder may or may not hold up for the 145-pound play-caller. Guard and co-captain Bob Jacovitz, 165, has been shaking off a leg strain all week. Sub quarterback Murray Fisher and center Joe Penny have bad bruises.

The Bolger and Dukas blows have forced Coach Morris to shift Bill Bucklin from a reserve guard to quarterback. Sophomore Richie Cahill, a nifty passer, will move into left-half, sending Nick Ricardelli, 150-pound junior to right half and placing Johnnie 'Dutch' Powers, 160 pounds, at fullback. That'll be the makeshift quartet carrying the offensive against Beverly.

But if they can uphold their ends—to push across a touchdown and set up a successful pass defense—English could win on the strength of its line. Centers Herb Smallwood, 160, and sub Joe Penny, 150, and guards Jacovitz and Ruby Jules, 150, give English possibly the strongest middle line on the North Shore. Tackles Vin DeGrande, 168, and Frank Dixon, 195, aren't far behind.

English's ends are still unsettled. John Hennessy, 172 and 6.2 inches, will hold down one wing with Martin Smith, 165. Bill McIntosh, 155, and John Danluk, 170, still battling for the other. Hennessy and Smith will move into the backfield to take care of the kicking.

Other English players who will see action this season include: Ends—Frank Cullinen, John Dunn; tackles—Mike Kavanaugh, Bill Wayne, Charlie Frango, Jim O'Shea; guards—Bill Bochichio, Bill Driscoll, Bob Szecki, Rudy Linereau; center—Arnold Cummings; backs—Carl Harris, John Law, Cush Colby, John Welch, Les Locke, Neal Smith and Bob Monroe.

English's schedule, after Beverly, lists: (at) Lawrence, Oct. 12; Peabody, Oct. 21; Saugus, Oct. 27; Marblehead, Nov. 2; (at) Everett, Nov. 9, and Classical, Thanksgiving Day.

Hambone to Lead Cheering for Moore

Two colorful boxing personalities are scheduled to be among those present next Monday night at Mechanics Building when matchmaker Sam Silverman pulls the pin on another explosive Callahan A. C. ring show. They are Joseph "Hambone" Kelley from South Boston, who will lead the cheering section for Tommy Moore, and Willie Pep, featherweight champion, who is making plans to be in John Cesario's corner.

Cesario, North End by way of Hartford, collides with capable Ceferino Bronco, Fall River, in another 10-rounder. Cesario is a stable-mate of Pep, under the management of Lou Viscusi and Bill Gore.

150,000 to See School Games

There's just one important point wrong with the week-end schoolboy football schedule! The games will not be played on a staggered time basis and as a result thousands of fans will be forced to take their choice of some very attractive offerings—although the pairings have been spread out so that at least six contests could attempt to satisfy the most rabid rooters.

The program will get under way today with a twin bill at Braves Field, jump into the floodlight stage tonight, pick up tomorrow afternoon, follow through with a single, crackerjack clash tomorrow night before winding up Sunday afternoon.

A conservative estimate and a smile from the weatherman could send over 150,000 fans scurrying to the varied parks throughout the State. And this program carries enough importance so that the logical contenders for the State championship could very well be determined by the results of these clashes. Only Everett, through a freak in the schedule, will be sitting in the stands, twiddling its nomination for the crown.

In the stadium of the midnight sun—Manning Bowl—Beverly and Lynn English will be heading the card tonight.

Two games tomorrow will have championship tinges with undefeated teams in action. Brockton will be stepping into its jinx at Medford and Newton will be packing its togs for a skip to the Melrose Athletic Field. Just a step below in importance will be Haverhill at Malden (with the Golden Tornado very much in the running); Marblehead at Salem and tomorrow night, Arlington at Lynn Classical.

Melrose may have a tussle on its hands with Newton but the Red Raiders should win out.

Fans at this tilt will get a peek at young Jack Sharkey, son of the former world's heavyweight champion, playing an end for Newton. And Coach Vic Knappman will welcome back Bob Scanlon, veteran halfback who was sidelined against Rindge with a concussion.

Coach Eddie Melanson's Malden crew, hitting stride against Waltham last week, will have trouble on its hands against Haverhill, attempting a comeback. Malden has the T down pat, with a roaring Dan Marangiello and a fleet John Carroll as counterthrusts. The Golden Tornado line is big, powerful and experienced. This team can't be counted out of the title run for a while yet.

Slick Sam Baugh To Appear Here

Boston gets its first real opportunity to see "Slingin'" Sammy Baugh, the greatest passer football has ever known, Sunday afternoon when the Redskins make their 1945 National League bow against the Boston Yanks at Fenway Park at 2:30 p. m.

Baugh is to football what Babe Ruth was to baseball.

In the National League, he holds pretty nearly every mark in the book. He leads in most passes thrown—1396; in passes completed—777; in most yards gained passing—9427; in most touchdown passes—84; in passing efficiency—55.6 per cent.

These figures represent seven years of National League effort. During that time he has sparked Washington to three Eastern division titles and two league championships.

NEW WEST POINT BACKS

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 5 (AP)—Following an hour and a half offensive drill yesterday it appeared as though Bobby Chabot and Herschel Fuson would share the right halfback position for Army against Wake Forest tomorrow.

Harlow Worried Over Tufts Battle

By HUCK FINNEGAN

It may sound strange for a coach of Dick Hardow's reputation to be fearing Tufts (Stagg fears Purdue; Leahy fears Idaho!) but the Harvard grid savant, back in harness for the first time since '42, actually is worrying about the outcome of tomorrow's game (3 p. m.) with Tufts in the stadium.

He has his reasons. Tufts has practically an all-veteran cast, and was good enough last year to hold Harvard to one touchdown victory margins. Harlow, on the other hand, has only two boys who were with him in '42. They are halfback Leo Flynn, returned flier who was shot down over Germany and rescued by Patton's armored columns, and tackle Willo Fisher, captured in the Battle of the Bulge last Christmas.

In addition, Harvard this week lost through injuries back Marvin Jenkins, end Paul Champion, guards Mal Allen and Ted Woggon. All four were regulars.

But Harvard has something left. Its starting lineup will be: ends, Perkins and Swegan; tackles, Pierce and Fisher; guards, Dewey and Foster; center, Faber; qb, Tennant; rhb, Fritts; lhb, Flynn; fb, Cowen.

Of these, Cowen, Perkins, Fritts and Pierce started the second '44 game against Tufts and Foster saw action therein. Too, Fisher and Flynn played a lot of football in '42.

Behind the starting eleven are ends, Di Luzio and Vilushis; tackle, Coan; guards, Hodge and Le Bart; center, Grady; qb, MacDonald; lhb, Roche; fb, Miller. All of them are new. There are others like Ken O'Donnell, brother of Cleo, who enlisted from Worcester Classical after the '41 season; Bill Mielke, Navy vet who quarterbacked Franklin and Marshall last season, and Bill Jackson, punter from Exeter. All may be used tomorrow.

What are the prospects?

Well, the team may be ragged in spots against Tufts. It hasn't been together long. But the line will average close to 200, there is speed in the backfield and when the four injured regulars return the Crimson should go places in its own league. By Dec. 1, it will be ready to give Yale a go of it.

Leo Flynn passes and runs, and now Al McCoy is teaching him to punt . . . Willo Fisher weighs 215, Pierce 211 . . . Ken O'Donnell reports that Cleo is in Japan . . . Jack Fisher, Harlow's '42 center, is back in this country but will not return to school until '46 . . . Tennant and Swegan will divide the punting tomorrow in the absence of Jenkins . . . Harvard has not scrimmaged all week. "We're too thin," said Harlow . . . Harvard has scouted Tufts twice . . . After Tufts, Harvard will face Rochester, New London Sub Base, Coast Guard Academy,

Harvard versus Yale!

One of the oldest college football rivalries in the country will be resumed Dec. 1, at New Haven.

The Ivy League rivals have not met in football since November, 1942. Harvard then adopted its informal methods of competition, and Yale proceeded on a formal basis.

The announcement was made by Bill Bingham, Harvard director of athletics. Bingham was recently discharged from the Army.
